Lagoon Skating OK

The sign at the Liberty Park lagoon may say "No Skating" but the official okay for such winter activity came at 2 p.m. Saturday from Jack Couts, park superintendent. Overnight and early morning temperatures dipping to minus 13 degrees by 8 a.m. formed a layer of ice thick enough to support a hockey game, skaters, and neighborhood children just "sliding around." The downtown temperature at 10:30 a.m. is shown by the Third National Bank sign. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Tactical, Air Rescue Squad Cuts Frozen

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command made another big troop cutback Saturday but froze the withdrawal of any tactical and rescue air squadrons because of new enemy missile threats on South Vietnam's northern frontier.

The move strengthened indications that the residual force President Nixon talks about as a lever to obtain release of American prisoners of war is shaping up as one of airpower, while he reduces ground forces.

The latest cutback of 2,580 troops reduced the number of combat maneuver battalions to 13 from a high of 112 less than three years ago. Nixon has ordered a cutback to 69,000 men by May 1 from the present total of 150,000.

The U.S. Command reported that North Vietnam had moved mobile missile launchers closer to South Vietnam's northern frontier than ever before in the war. This triggered two new aerial engagements with U.S. fighters Friday.

For the second time in less than 24 hours, an Air Force F105 radar interceptor patrolling the eastern flank detected one site on the northern edge of the demilitarized zone. It unleashed an air to ground missile at the position before it could fire. The command said the results were not known.

Earlier in the day, a fighter plane spotted a missile site three miles north of the buffer between North and South Vietnam and was believed to have destroyed it with a Shrike missile.

On the western flank of the DMZ, two missiles were fired at another F105 flying over Laos about 15 miles above South Vietnam's frontier. The pilot spotted the missiles in time and evaded them.

Four mobile missile launchers were detected last week near South Vietnam's borders, and two of them were reported destroyed by U.S. fighter-bombers.

U.S. planes operating from 7th Fleet carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin and from the Da Nang air base fly across the northern frontier of South Vietnam to get to their targets in Laos. North Vietnam apparently has shifted its tactics to harass these planes while they are en route to bomb its Ho Chi Minh supply network in Laos.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said that Air Force strength in South Vietnam will be cut from its present 28,000 to 16,000 by May. Officials here said none of the four tactical strike squadrons nor the rescue and recovery group would be affected.

These sources said air transport squadrons, psychological warfare operations squadrons, and other noncombat units would be cut to reduce the Air Force strength to 16,000.

Three of the tactical squadrons remaining in South Vietnam are based at Da Nang. They are supersonic F4s, America's fastest fighters, needed for air defense. The fourth attack squadron is based at Bien Hoa north of Saigon. Flying subsonic A37 jets, the squadron supports Cambodian forces.

About 80 attack fighter planes remain in South Vietnam. The United States has nearly 300 more aboard 7th Fleet carriers and at bases in Thailand.

More than 40,000 U.S. Air Force and Navy men are based with the 7th Fleet and in Thailand, engaged in air operations over Indochina. They are not included in the U.S. troop strength figures in South Vietnam.

The latest reduction in U.S. troops came on a fifth successive day of a increased enemy attacks. The enemy has launched 140 rocket, mortar, sapper and terror attacks.

Most of the attacks have been small, aimed at the goverment's militia forces which are charged with defending provincial and district capitals.

The latest round of attacks left at least 15 South Vietnamese soldiers and 15 civilians dead, according to preliminary reports. Another 49 soldiers and 9 civilians were wounded. The Saigon command claimed 89 enemy troops were killed.

In northern Laos, observers who flew over the old U.S.-supported guerrilla base at Long Cheng said the red, white and blue flag of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao was flying in one corner of the valley as hand-to-hand fighting raged for the high ground overlooking the base.

Several battalions of government irregular forces under the command of Gen. Vang Pao, were fighting to try to retake a skyline ridge on the northeastern edge of Long Cheng.

Official sources in the administrative capital of Vientiane, 78 miles to the south denied the base had fallen.

Israel Ready To Talk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Saturday Israel should clearly signal its intention to compromise in peace talks with Egypt but should stick fast to its refusal of more concessions before negotiations begin.

Dayan said chances the talks could resume are "very good" because both Egypt and Israel are looking for a way out of the Arab-Israeli conflict without war.

"We should be ready to enter negotiations with Egypt...in any way they want," Dayan said, "and it should be made clear that we are ready to compromise."

The Israeli defense minister's assessment came in televised comments on Thursday's speech by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. Sadat renewed his contention that war is inevitable, but declined to close the door on a negotiated settlement.

Dayan said the speech showed Sadat is "searching for a solution without going to war," chiefly because of the strong Israeli army.

"From an objective viewpoint," he went on, "the chances for negotiations are very good—better than in the past."

Dayan upheld the Israeli position that any concessions should come "in the framework of negotiations."

"I don't think we will retreat from the Suez Canal as long as there is a possibility of renewed fighting," he said.

Sadat has demanded a prior Israeli commitment to withdrawal from Egyptian territory and a partial troop pullback from the canal as conditions for resumption of the long-stalled talks.

Israel has refused any commitment except as part of a negotiated settlement. Dayan said Sadat's speech showed the wisdom of this stand because the Egyptian leader backed down from repeated pledges to end the stalemate in 1971 either through war or negotiation.

Another Israeli military leader, former intelligence chief Haim Herzog, said over the Israeli state radio that Palestinian guerrillas were out to topple the government in Lebanon.

Herzog said the guerrillas turned their "murderous intentions" from King Hussein of Jordan to Lebanon's President Suleiman Franjieh because they needed an unrestricted base for commando raids on Israel.

"For them the Bedouin of Jordan who stood up to them and finally accepted their challenge has been replaced by the Christian community of Lebanon and part of the Moslem community," Herzog said.

Lebanon's premier, Saeb Salam, said in Beirut his army has orders to repulse any new Israeli attack along the southern border. Israel sent soldiers against three Lebanese villages last week to retaliate for guerrilla rocket strikes on Israeli border settlements.

Lebanon's 15,000-man army did not respond.

But Salam said Israel has warned Lebanon the raids will continue unless Beirut stops Palestinian guerrillas from using southern Lebanese territory to launch commando raids against Israel.

Franjieh messaged all Arab heads of state that "tension on the Lebanese-Israeli border has reached alarming proportions that make the worst eventuality possible," a government spokesman reported.

The well-informed independent Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Franjieh's message also appealed for "joint Arab efforts to protect Lebanon against a possible Israeli attempt to occupy part of South Lebanon."

Salam pledged the government would curb guerrilla activity along the border and reported that his conference with guerrilla chieftain Yasir Arafat brought "full agreement on strict observation of a 1970 accord."

Under that agreement, between guerrillas and the Lebanese government, the Palestinians are banned from firing rockets into Israel from Lebanon and from setting up training camps in inhabited Lebanese territory.

Lebanon took no active part in the 1967 Mideast war in which Israel occupied Egypt's Sinai Desert, Jordan's west bank territory and Syria's Golan Heights.

Posting Order Lifted For Small Businesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission Saturday relieved the nation's smallest shopkeepers from a requirement that they post their freeze-level prices where customers can see them.

The commission said the posting requirement will no longer apply to retail firms with less than $200,000 a year in revenues.

A spokesman said that this exempts 87 per cent of all retail firms which account for 24 per cent of all retail sales dollars, according to 1967 Internal Revenue Service figures.

The move came only three days before a scheduled crackdown by more than 1,000 IRS agents on firms that have not complied with the posting requirement, which technically has been in force since Jan. 2.

However, the government declared a grace period of sorts when merchants complained of difficulties in meeting the requirement. During the period, which ends next Tuesday, anyone found in violation of the posting rule was merely given a warning if he could show a good-faith effort to comply.

Tuesday, however, the IRS will begin enforcing the requirement stringently. The law provides fines of up to $5,000 for each violation.

Furthermore, merchants who have raised prices without first posting their freeze-level prices also may be liable for consumer lawsuits.

Price Commission rules say that retailers may not raise prices unless they have complied with the posting requirement. The new Economic Stabilization Act says consumers may collect treble damages for any overcharges.

In Discrimination Issue

HEW Files Exemption

(Democrat-Capital Service)

The Office of the General Counsel of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has filed exceptions to a federal hearing examiner's initial decision absolving the Sedalia school district of intentional discrimination. It calls for the termination of all federal aid to the district as part of a finding that the district is violating the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution and the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Dated Jan. 7, the exceptions were filed with the reviewing authority, the Office of Civil Rights, by two HEW attorneys, Christopher Hagen and John Wodatch.

The 33-pages of exceptions follow an initial decision by hearing examiner Thomas J. Pope, dated Nov. 5, 1971. In that decision Pope found in favor of the Sedalia school district following a hearing in Kansas City.

HEW takes exceptions to Pope's decision on the grounds that the hearing examiner made several errors of law, errors of fact and misconstrued federal civil rights laws.

In support of the claim that the Sedalia school district is in violation of federal civil rights law, the HEW exceptions list several facts established by the hearing examiner, which they say, "...establish a prima facie case of discrimination and place the burden upon the school board to explain or justify its action, which it has totally failed to do."

Elsewhere the list of exceptions states: "... the argument that the Sedalia system is not a dual school system, when it continues to operate a school which was the Negro school under the dual system, and that school educated 98.6 per cent of the Negro elementary students in the District, is insupportable."

The HEW exceptions charge that segregation is maintained in Sedalia's elementary schools by the virtually all-Negro nature of Hubbard school, the bussing of students and the assignment of teachers.

(The Sedalia school board earlier ordered the integration of elementary teachers, effective the beginning of the current school year.)

In rebuttal to the hearing examiner's finding that the Sedalia school board was not given adequate time to integrate the system, HEW states:

"The ... chain of correspondence clearly establishes that the Department sought the voluntary compliance of Respondent with the Civil Rights Act of 1964. In the six months between Oct. 1, 1970 and March 30, 1971 the Respondent School District had every opportunity to suggest an acceptable desegregation plan or to request assistance from the Department in preparing such a desegregation plan. The record indicates that no such requests were made."

HEW also challenges the hearing examiner's characterization of the Hubbard school situation as being a result of "de facto" segregation, or that which develops as a result of housing patterns instead of the force of law (de jure). "Hubbard is a de jure Negro school," HEW states.

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, in distributing the exceptions to school board members, said that William F. Brown "will now file exceptions to their exceptions and send these to the Reviewing Authority."

There was no indication as to when a decision from the reviewing authority, HEW's Office of Civil Rights, would be handed down.

Kansas Citian Shot Following Car Chase

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — A Kansas City man was shot in the leg Friday following a high speed chase west on Highway 50 that began at 3:44 p.m. one to two miles east of Knob Noster and ended several miles west of Knob Noster.

Robert Patterson, 25, left a line of six or more cars on either side of Highway 50 as he drove a 1968 Buick Electra he commandeered from Mrs. John Robinson east of Knob Noster.

Mrs. Robinson said she had taken to the shoulder of the westbound lane of Highway 50 to avoid Patterson's car, which was stopped in the center of the road, according to Knob Noster policeman Charlie Norman. Norman apprehended Patterson.

Norman told The Democrat-Capital Mrs. Robinson said Patterson was "running his finger across his throat, like he was slitting someone's throat." The Robinson woman was too frightened to leave her car, said Norman, until T-Sgt. John Crawshaw, Whiteman AFB, and his wife pulled to a stop behind Patterson's car, when Mrs. Robinson made a dash for their car, leaving her small dog behind. As she fled, Patterson took over the driver's seat of Mrs. Robinson's Buick and threw the dog to the pavement.

Patterson immediately headed west, but stopped according to Norman and began backing toward Mrs. Robinson and the Crawshaw couple, who were out of their car at the time. Mrs. Robinson told Knob Noster authorities she thought Patterson was trying to run them down, but she and the Crawshaws escaped harm.

After one pass at the trio, Patterson once again headed west. In the next three-fourths of a mile Patterson forced four more cars off of the road, said Norman. The last car he hit, driven by Lewis Morris, Jefferson City, damaged the Buick he was driving so badly, according to Norman, that steering was difficult and Patterson abandoned the vehicle.

"When I got there," Norman told The Democrat-Capital, "he was yelling and screaming." Patterson was shouting "Get these cars off my highway and that helicopter out of my sky," pointing to a helicopter hovering overhead, Norman said.

When Norman approached Patterson, the latter screamed, "I'm not afraid of your gun," then repeated his demand about the cars and the helicopter.

Once again focusing his attention on Norman, Patterson snarled "I'll kill you." With that warning he started toward the Knob Noster policeman. Norman said he tried to keep Patterson away with the butt of his shotgun, but the latter persisted in his threats and kept coming. Norman said he fired a warning shot at the ground to his right, but Patterson was not deterred.

Patterson repeated his threat on Norman's life and slipped a hand into his coat pocket as if reaching for a gun, whereupon Norman fired a second shot, hitting Patterson in the leg. Patterson had no weapon, Norman said.

A physician from John-Hopkins University, Baltimore, happened to be passing by at the time and stopped to treat Patterson's wound. The doctor, whose name is not known, stayed by the wounded man's side until an ambulance arrived.

Patterson was taken to Johnson County Memorial Hospital and later transferred to the Kansas City, Kan., Medical Center, where he was reported in fair condition.

Norman said he could not determine if Patterson was intoxicated. "I didn't smell any alcohol," he told The Democrat-Capital.

A Johnson County Sheriff's office spokesman said Saturday Patterson was believed under the influence of some type of drugs. This had not been confirmed by the Kansas University Medical Center.

The deputy also noted a charge of auto theft has been made and a warrent issued for the arrest of Patterson with more charges expected as the investigation unfolds in the multi-faceted incident.

A highway patrol spokesman said traffic charges were pending Patterson's release from the medical center.

Patterson was a field representative for the Urban League in Kansas City. Lounneer Pemberton, executive director of the Urban League, described Patterson as "a fine young man," saying he is married and his wife is expecting a child.

Fairfax Files For Fourth Term

Emmett Fairfax

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax filed for a fourth consecutive term in office Friday. His name will be on the August Democratic primary ballot.

First elected in 1960, Fairfax oversaw the transition in 1970 to a modern county law enforcement facility, with the construction of the new Pettis County jail. Improved communications equipment is a feature of the jail, funded mainly by the federal government.

Fairfax was president of the Missouri Sheriff's Association for a year, leaving office last September.

In 1970, he was appointed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to the Missouri Law Enforcement Assistance Council, the only sheriff to serve on the council.

Pointing to his experience gained in office and the training he has received at various schools, Fairfax said he is qualified "to go a better job as a law enforcement official in the future. For that reason I would like to continue in the sheriff's office."

Airport Precaution

The use of trained dogs to detect hidden explosives at airports will be evaluated for the Federal Aviation Administration of the Department of Transportation by the Fairfax County, Va., police department under terms of an FAA agreement. Here, Donald F. Hult, of the MPPD explosive detection unit, and his trained dog Satan, demonstrated the method of detection. (UPI)

Sedalians At Columbia MDAA Meeting

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Settles, 810 West Broadway, Sedalia, attended a meeting Thursday night at which the Central Missouri chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., presented a $7,500 national grant-in-aid to Dr. Henry D. Brown of the Cancer Research Center here.

The amount included $3,600 collected in Sedalia as part of the muscular dystrophy telethon last year, Settles reported.

The grant given to Dr. Brown was for the fifth year he has done research into the cause and cure of muscular dystrophy and brings the amount spent by the MDAA in supporting his research to $37,500, it was revealed. Total muscular dystrophy research expenditures in Missouri now stand at $255,650.

Special guests at the meeting included muscular dystrophy patients from Sedalia, Columbia, Jefferson City, Boonville, Moberly, Sturgeon, Ashland, Fulton, Springfield, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Babysitter Has Word For Working Mother

Dear Ann Landers: Can I borrow your space for a few minutes? What I have to say can be said only by me. Thank you.

Dear Mother: Are you a working woman who drops her pre-school child off at a sitter's house five mornings a week? If you are, then I am talking to you.

Your hours are from 9 'til 5. You get a coffee break at 10:30 and a lunch hour from 12:00 to 1:00. There's another coffee break at 3:00. You are finished at 5:00.

When you drop your child off at my place at 8:45 a.m. the poor kid's hair isn't even combed, he has yesterday's dirt on him, and he hasn't had an adequate breakfast. I feed him, wash him up and play with him. I read to him, I cuddle him, I love him and listen to him. I have no coffee breaks, no lunch hour. I am with that child continually. If I am busy or not feeling well I do not call you and say, "Don't bring the child today." I manage somehow because I know you need me.

All I ask in return is that when 5:15 comes, will you please be here for the youngster? It isn't fair to go shopping or to the beauty shop or for a drink with the girls, or the boys, and tie me up for another hour or two. Thank you. — Last Legs

Dear Legs: I hope the mothers get the message. It comes through loud and clear. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the woman whose husband needed a blood transfusion and you pointed out the need for healthy donors. Here's an experience which says something about the quality of medicine we are getting in hospitals today.

I was hospitalized for a minor ailment. A technician took a blood sample for typing and asked if I would be a donor if needed. I said yes. Later that day I mentioned this to a member of my family and was reminded that I had had yellow jaundice forty years ago and therefore my blood couldn't be used for transfusion. I had forgotten about the old illness and asked a doctor if it would eliminate me as a blood donor. He said it certainly would.

My question is this: Wouldn't it have been terrible if I had given yellow jaundice to an unsuspecting patient? Please comment. — Not Eligible

Dear Not: The technician who asked if you'd be willing to be a blood donor was doing a routine check. Before the actual procedure you would have been asked several questions — and been eliminated if you had reported your bout with yellow jaundice.

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to the parents who asked if they should give the piano to their son who was getting married, was terrible. You said NO. You should have said YES.

What good is that piano to his parents? Why should a lovely instrument sit in a living room gathering dust? I can't think of a more appropriate wedding gift to a son who has practiced hard for years. It would be a permanent piece of his boyhood in his very own home.

You said something about the boy dropping in at his parents' home and playing for them on occasions. You've got to be kidding. Do you think a newly-married guy is going to spend his spare time playing the piano for his folks? Change your advice, will you please? — Minot, N.D.

Dear Minot: Your letter makes sense. And it's the 50th letter urging me to reconsider. O.K. out there — you win. I hereby reverse myself. Give the boy the piano for a wedding present, folks.

Do you feel ill at ease ... out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Accused Youth Is Released to Father

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 14-year-old boy, accused of killing his stepmother, has been released to the custody of his father after a juvenile court hearing.

Police said the boy, Jerry Wayne Mott, probably will return to school Monday. His father is retired Lt. Col. S. Gerald Mott.

The frozen body of Mrs. Mott, 39, was found in a creek bed Thursday night. Police said she apparently had been shot Wednesday.

Juvenile officers said another hearing will be held Monday to review evidence.

Effects of Cigarettes On Unborn Undetermined

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A University of California scientist who made a study involving 5,077 women has concluded tentatively that cigarette smoking might not interfere with development of an unborn child, as is widely suspected.

The conclusions of Dr. Jacob Yerushalmy of the university's school of public health at Berkeley sharply contradict results of more than 30 scientific studies in the last 15 years that linked smoking to lower birthweight babies. Such conclusions have been a powerful argument of antismoking forces.

Yerushalmy's research on the women who bore 8,671 babies was supported by the National Institutes of Health. He describes it in an article appearing today in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology. A nonsmoker, he thinks his study raises important questions that must be answered before smoking's harmful effects on the fetus are accepted as a foregone conclusion.

"Because of the important implications of these findings not only to the question of smoking and prematurity but also to the other aspects of the problem of smoking and health, the conclusions must be considered tentative," he wrote in the article.

"The findings however, make a strong case for the need to investigate the problem on much larger samples of births and to include for study many more variables."

The women in Yerushalmy's study were patients at Kaiser Hospital in Oakland between 1960-67. He studied women in four classes: those who never smoked, those who gave birth to children and began smoking later, those who smoked throughout their pregnancies and haven't stopped, and those who smoked while pregnant but quit after their baby was born.

The striking finding, he reports, was that just as many low birthweight infants were born to continuous smokers as to women who had never smoked but took up cigarettes after the child was born. Striking also, he said, was finding that smokers who later quit gave birth to few low weight babies even though they had smoked during the pregnancy.

"These findings raise doubt and argue against the proposition that cigarette smoking acts as an exogenous external factor which interferes with the intrauterine development of the fetus," Yerushalmy concludes.

"Rather, the evidence appears to support the hypothesis that the higher incidence of low birthweight infants is due to the smoker not the smoking."

Despite being a member of the rodent family, muskrats are clean animals.

Two Arrested In County Friday Night

Two men were arrested Friday night and were being held in the Pettis County jail Saturday night.

Charged with obtaining money by trickery or deception is James W. Hayes, 405 East Jackson. The charge stems from a Nov. 26 incident when Hayes allegedly obtained $24.90 from the North 65 Derby Station. Bond was set at $1,000.

Charged with injuring a dwelling house is Frank Edward Walecki, 511 West Second. The misdemeanor charge involves damage done to the window pane of a door on the John VanDyne home North Grand Avenue, Route 4. Walecki entered the house and used the phone, thinking it to be the house of his employer, according to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax.

He was arrested early Saturday morning following the 2:30 a.m. incident. Bond was set at $500.

Trial Date Set

A Circuit Court trial for Hester Gene Drew, alias Carolyn Jean Wilson, was set Friday for April 4 on a charge of stealing over $50. A request to reduce her $10,000 bond was denied.

The Drew woman entered a plea of innocent to the charge, in which she is accused of taking $830 worth of clothing from the C.W. Flower Co. on Nov. 26. The alleged incident was part of a downtown shoplifting spree that day in which three women were involved and goods worth an estimated $1,120 were taken from various stores.

Irving Disclaims Hughes Interview

NEW YORK (AP) — The disembodied voice introduced as Howard Hughes at a recent telephoned news conference failed to remember details the reclusive billionaire certainly would have recalled, says author Clifford Irving.

Irving, named by publisher McGraw-Hill as the collaborator in a forthcoming autobiography of Hughes, said in an interview he was "astonished" at the memory lapses of the man who spoke to seven newsmen in Los Angeles by telephone Jan. 7.

All seven reporters, some of whom had prior contact with Hughes, agreed that the detailed, technical answers to some questions about aircraft were among things that convinced them it was the billionaire at the other end of the line.

Two voice experts have said that voice prints taken from the tape of the conversation matched older recordings of Hughes' voice. Irving has said he does not believe the voice was Hughes'. The man introduced as Hughes said he did not know Irving and that the forthcoming autobiography is a fraud.

Among the items the man identified as Hughes failed to remember, Irving said, were his relationship with a former Air Force general who managed the Hughes Aircraft Co. and the fact that the first motion picture ever produced by the billionaire won the first Academy Award ever given.

At one point in the 2½-hour news conference, one of the seven reporters asked the man on the telephone if he remembered Lt. Gen. Harold L. George, who was chief of the Air Transport Command during World War II.

After some hesitation, the voice replied: "Oh, yes. Yes. Well, he was just a friend. He never worked for me. Did he? I don't remember Gen. George ever working for me."

Between 1948 and 1953, George was vice president of Hughes Tool Co. and general manager of the Hughes Aircraft Co., both owned by Hughes.

George and another retired Air Force general, Ira Eaker, were the two administrative heads of the aircraft interest, Irving said. "They were the bosses of the company, they ran it. Hughes had many arguments with them," he added.

During his relationship with George, Irving said Hughes had told him, the general used to lend the billionaire dimes to make telephone calls, and "would bill him for them periodically as a kind of joke. Hughes didn't think it was very funny."

"What astonishes me is that the guy who was so well prepped on details of aircraft couldn't even remember who ran his aircraft company for five years," Irving declared.

At another point in the long news conference, one of the reporters commented that Hughes had made a number of classic films, including "Scarface" and "Hell's Angels."

The voice replied of Hughes' films: "I'm pretty pleased with the way mine have stood up. They haven't won any Academy Awards, but I think one of them got some kind of an award. But in general, mine will not be considered artistic classics. From that standpoint I have nothing to boast about."

Irving said Hughes told him: "I got Lewis Milestone, a man whom I respected very much, to direct a picture, 'Two Arabian Knights.' That won the Academy Award. That was the first year they had the Oscars and we won the award for best direction in comedy."

The movie, produced in 1927 and 1928, won the Academy Award for the best achievement in directing the first year the awards were made. It starred Louis Wolheim.

At another point in the telephone interview, the man identified as Hughes said he had worn canvas shoes during the war because rationing had prevented him from getting leather footwear. "What he told me," Irving said, "was, 'I had the worst case of athlete's foot known to man or beast.'"

Asked in the telephone interview why he had been so reclusive during the past 12 years, the voice said: "I don't really know. I will tell you one thing. I am rapidly planning to come out of it."

Irving: "Hughes knows exactly why he's a recluse. He spends 50 pages in the manuscript of his autobiography explaining just that."

Hutchison Incorporating Sedalia Firm

Larry Hutchison

Mrs. Leta M. Corley, operator of the Corley Bookkeeping and Tax Service, 112 West Fourth, reported that her firm became a part of Hutchison, Williams and Mutti, Kansas City, a firm of certified public accountants, effective Saturday.

The Kansas City firm has several offices in Missouri, it was reported.

Mrs. Corley was employed by the auditing department of the Internal Revenue Service before going into business for herself in 1946. She will continue to work with her clients here in affiliation with Hutchison, Williams and Mutti.

She said that joining the Kansas City firm will make available additional services that her clients' growth and needs are demanding. These services will include auditing, management, advisement and computerization of data.

In addition to Mrs. Corley, the new firm will be represented in Sedalia by Larry Hutchison, Independence, who will move here. He will be assisted by Ron Castleman. Both men are certified public accountants.

Jury Convicts Kansas City Man On Murder Charge

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 21year-old Kansas City man was found guilty of first-degree murder Saturday by an all-male jury, which voted for the death penalty.

Felix L. Brooks, 21, was one of four men charged with the shotgun slaying of Norman Robert Kennedy, an assistant manager at a service station which was the scene of a robbery last May. Kennedy was struck in the head by a blast from a sawed-off shotgun as he knelt on the floor.

In an earlier trial, James Edward Antwine, 26, was found guilty of first-degree murder in the case and the jury recommended life imprisonment.

Two other defendants, one of whom testified against Brooks, are awaiting trial.

The jury deliberated 4½ hours Friday night before being sent to a hotel by Judge Lewis W. Clymer of the Jackson County Circuit Court. Deliberations continued early Saturday for another 75 minutes before the verdict was reached.

Members of the jury had the option of fixing the sentence at life imprisonment or death.

Brooks' attorney, James L. McMullin, said he has 40 days to file a motion for a new trial. He said he will ask that the punishment be reduced to life imprisonment.

Arrest Woman For Carrying Concealed Gun

Sedalia police are holding a woman following a tip via a Crime Alert call to go to the 400 block of North Washington during early morning hours Saturday.

The caller told police that someone was discharging a firearm, according to police reports. When officers arrived they found no one at the scene but during their investigation they spotted a subject in the 400 block of North Moniteau.

A police source reported that upon questioning the individual she was reportedly found to be carrying a revolver in her coat pocket.

Charged with carrying a concealed weapon is Deborah Potts, address unknown. She was being held in the city jail Saturday night.

MANY HOSPITALS LET

MOM STAY WITH CHILD

The presence of a parent can often do more to help a child recuperate than anything else. Realizing this a great many hospitals have radically changed their visiting hours and overnight stay policies for the parents of a hospitalized child. Knowing the temperament and emotional reactions of your children you should inquire about this before planning any admission to the hospital.

We hope it never becomes necessary but if you do have to plan an overnight stay with one of your children, we can make you up a small kit of night-time essentials to help you to be more comfortable.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer, you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Question

We have never joined a church in Sedalia. What will we do when we lose a member of our family?

Answer

A funeral service is primarily a religious experience of great spiritual significance. Its purpose is to conclude the physical existence of someone we love with the knowledge that God's will has been accomplished. At this time it is a priest, minister or rabbi to whom your family should turn. He is your ligical counselor by virtue of his training and dedication.

The clergy of Sedalia are known for their compassion and understanding. Those who do not have a church affiliation will find many friends volunteering to help them select a clergyman. Our personnel are affiliated with many religious groups, we also can be helpful in this choice.

Sedalians Favor Billboard Ban

Sedalians responding to the latest Democrat-Capital survey are almost unanimously in favor of new legislation to ban billboards along Missouri's highways.

By a 9-to-1 margin, they replied affirmatively to the question: "The Missouri General Assembly must enact a billboard control law before March 31 or lose federal highway funds. Do you think such a law is needed?"

Only one negative response was accompanied by a signed letter. From Rogers Clark, Marshall, it said, "I can't see why the federal government is so crazy about eliminating billboards.

"In traveling, billboards help to let you know what is ahead and also breaks the monotony while driving down a road. The federal government should quit wasting our money and send more of our tax money back to the states without strings attached," he wrote.

An Otterville couple who wished to remain anonymous voted both "yes" and "no" to the question.

They wrote, "We believe our highways would be more attractive without some of the billboards, especially those that advertise liquor and cigarettes... On the other hand, we would hate to see the church signs, which advertise churches, taken down as they are a blessing to any city or town...

"No doubt anyone who is interested in any product advertised by billboards will find that product if they want it without a highway sign," they concluded.

Clayton O. Morris, Jr., 1922 East 16th, wrote that he had two reasons for favoring the billboard control law. "The first," he wrote, "(is that) we don't need any extra advertising... we get plenty of that from radio, TV and newspapers. The second reason is nearly all the highway projects are financed 50 per cent by federal funds."

In an aside, he wrote "I also think the Democrat-Capital Survey is good. I am in favor of it."

Another Sedalian, James Hausam, wrote that he believed billboards should be restricted to "within corporate city limits where their clutter is masked by the larger surrounding city clutter, or be placed only on the business premise if located outside a city. There is no reason to allow billboards to be scattered across the countryside.

"Missouri has some particularly scenic areas and these should not be hidden by billboards...," Hausam said.

A LaMonte resident who asked not to be named wrote, "I am very much in favor of a billboard control law. I don't see much difference between a pile of empty whiskey bottles and beer cans, which we class as litter, and a picture of the same whiskey bottle or beer can which is 14 feet high and 25 or 30 feet across."

Dies of Injuries

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 2-year-old boy died after he was hit by a truck in a grocery store parking lot Friday.

He was Sean A. Wood, son of Mrs. Bonnie Wood. Police said the death would not be listed as a traffic fatality because it occurred on private property.

Toll Road Results

Huge Starling Flock Decends

RADFORD, Va. (AP) — When you're trying to teach children respect for ecology and the environment, how do you suddenly spring on them a plan for the mass execution of 150,000 birds?

Kyle Roop, city manager of this southwest Virginia town, is mulling over that question—when he is not answering a telephone barrage of complaints and questions.

"I wish I had never heard of those birds," Roop said Friday. "It's hard to explain to children and some grownups that these birds are nuisances."

The birds are part of a tremendous flock of starlings that has taken roost in a small wooded area near here.

By night, the birds pack themselves into trees and, one of their neighbors said, the area smells like a "steaming barnyard."

By day, the starlings wing their way out across the hills and valleys of Southwest Virginia where they raise havoc in cattle feed lots, spoiling grain and other food they do not eat.

Glen Dudderar, a Virginia Tech wildlife specialist, proposed a plan that started Roop's telephone ringing.

Dudderar's proposal was for the fire department to turn on the roosting birds a special detergent which he said neutralizes the oil in the birds' feathers so they can't fluff them to keep warm.

Their body temperature quickly drops from the normal 104 degrees and they die. Dudderar assured the City Council that the practice has been used successfully elsewhere.

But Dr. Robert Leathers, a college professor who teaches children in ecology classes conducted by a local civic club, said he was immediately swamped by his students.

"Many kids came to me and said, 'You're killing our birds,'" Leathers said. "The kids feel we are letting them down."

He pleaded for at least a stay of execution until the children could be convinced that the starlings are the never-do-wells of the bird kingdom.

Roop agreed to a postponement while conservationists argue that the birds can be frightened away with noise.

They can, Dudderar agrees, but there are probably 250,000 starlings within 50 miles of Radford and may be as many as 10 million in Virginia.

It's very likely, he said, that they will just move to another part of town or split up to remain in a number of smaller flocks.

Latin America Is Drug Source

By LOUIS UCHITELLE
Associated Press Writer

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A U.S. congressman says the bulk of hard drugs in the United States is smuggled in from Latin American and that Paraguay is the main jumping-off point.

The congressman, Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C., and two other members of a congressional committee visited Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Panama last week to gather data on drug smuggling.

While in Buenos Aires, they met with American Embassy officials and U.S. narcotics agents.

"The current opinion of U.S. customs is that more than 50 per cent of all hard drugs in the United States are smuggled into the country from Latin America," Mann said in an interview.

"We think that Paraguay is the leading Latin country in this traffic, and the main reception area for heroin from Europe en route to the United States," he said.

The Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs assigned two agents recently to Paraguay and two more to Argentina to help local police stem the flow of contraband drugs. The bureau also has offices in Venezuela, Panama and Mexico.

"We were surprised to find that the use of hard drugs in these Latin countries is limited," Mann said. "It's apparent that the failure to have a drug problem at home is one reason why control measures are lax."

Heroin grown in the Middle East and processed in France once traveled to the United States in planes and ships crossing the Atlantic, but now enters via Latin America, U.S. officials explain.

They say Paraguay became a leader because contraband already was a major acitivity and "the structure existed to handle drug traffic."

Although Paraguay has only 2.3 million people—most of them subsistence-level farmers—it is a major importer of whisky and cigarettes from the United States and Panama.

An "in transit" tax allows whisky, cigarettes and other merchandise to enter Paraguay legally. Once there this merchandise is shuttled as contraband into neighboring Argentina, Brazil and Bolivia, frequently aboard unmarked planes landing at and taking off from private airstrips. Some of the airstrips are said to be located in Paraguay.

U.S. officials say the planes which bring the whisky and cigarettes south from the United States and Panama load cocaine and heroin for the return trip north. The drugs go directly to the United States or to intermediate points in Panama, Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean for transshipment, U.S. officials say.

'Occupants' of Car Are Now in Custody

AUGUSTA, Mich. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies stopped a car near Augusta for a traffic violation and wound up taking 35 occupants of the vehicle into custody.

Thirty-two of them were turned over to the Kalamazoo County dog warden—23 chickens, three geese, two pigs and four rabbits.

The other three occupants—three young men—were held for investigation. Deputies said the animals had been stolen from a nearby farm.

Sorority Has Ballet Program

Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied presented a program on ballet to the Beta Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Thursday at the home of Mrs. Van White.

Mrs. Zimmerschied gave a brief history of the development of ballet and then played excerpts from the "Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikousky and invited members to join with her in doing some hand dancing, letting their hands move to the music and really trying to feel what the music is trying to express. Other music used included excerpts from "Carmen" by Bizet, and "Scheherazade," by Rimsky-Korsakov. Mrs. Zimmerschied concluded her program by giving a demonstration of ballet interpretation to the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Russell Martin, president, opened the business meeting. She introduced two visiting Beta Sigma Phi sisters, Miss Diane Linville, and Miss Donna Osborne.

Mrs. J. R. Garrett, representative from the Jaycee Wives presented a charm to Mrs. Norman Capps for being a candidate in the outstanding Young Woman contest sponsored by the Jaycees.

Mrs. Richard Cole read a report concerning the recent city council meeting. Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Martin, representatives to city council told of the plans for the Valentine Dance which will be held February 12, and which will be open to all Beta Sigma Phi chapters in Sedalia.

Mrs. Martin announced that Mrs. Jim Eschbacher was taking a leave of absence and in her absence, Mrs. Zimmerschied would replace her as service chairman. Mrs. Zimmerschied reported the success of the last project and thanked members for their assistance in stuffing pajama bags with candy and presenting each child a gift at the Melita Day Nursery. She reminded all members to bring sheets to the next meeting for invalids.

Mrs. Cole, ways and means chairman reported on the amount made by the chapter in the recent selling of candy.

Mrs. Pearly Jett, social chairman, reminded members of the supper for members and their husbands Saturday. She announced that the party would be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. White, and that each member should bring a foreign dish.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Martin were hostesses.

Can't Deduct Home Sale Loss

By RAY DE CRANE

If you sold your home at a profit last year the transaction must be reported on Schedule D. Any loss suffered in the sale of your personal residence is never deductible.

The tax on the gain may be fully or partially deferred, depending on the circumstances and the age of the sellers.

Under these circumstances the gain is deferred?

1. If within one year before or after the sale of the old residence you buy a new residence and use it as your principal dwelling place.

2. If you start to build a replacement residence either before the sale of the old or within one year after the sale and occupy the new residence within 18 months after the sale of the former home.

If either of these two tests is met, gain is recognized only to the extent the adjusted sales price of the old residence exceeds the cost of the new one.

The adjusted sales price is the gross selling price less the total of the selling expenses and the fixing-up expenses.

The selling expenses could include a broker's commission on the sale, expenses of advertising the property for sale, cost of deed preparation, legal services relating to the sale and "points" paid by the seller to obtain an FHA mortgage for the buyer.

Fixing-up expenses are those expenses incurred to make your property more attractive to a buyer. They include painting, decorating and repairs. They must have been made within 90 days before the sale and paid for within 30 days after the sale in order to be considered.

The tax on the gain is not forgiven; it is merely deferred. This calls for an adjustment in the cost price of the replacement home. For this purpose, fixing-up expenses are disallowed.

The selling expenses could include a broker's commission on the sale, expenses of advertising the property for sale, cost of deed preparation, legal services relating to the sale and "points" paid by the seller to obtain an FHA mortage for the buyer.

Fixing-up expenses are those expenses incurred to make your property more attractive to a buyer. They include painting, decorating and repairs. They must have been made within 90 days before the sale and paid for within 30 days after the sale in order to be considered.

The tax on the gain is not forgiven; it is merely deferred. This calls for an adjustment in the cost price of the replacement home. For this purpose, fixing-up expenses are disallowed.

Subtract the selling expenses from the gross selling price. Let's assume the gross selling price was $25,000 and the selling expenses were $1,500. Your net is $23,500. We'll assume also that you realized a gain of $5,000 on the sale.

Your replacement home cost $28,000. This means that no gain is recognized for tax purposes at this time.

You now have to adjust the purchase price of that replacement home by that unrecognized gain on the first home ($28,000 less $5,000 equals $23,000.) When the second home is sold for more than $23,000 there could be a gain.

Even more favorable treatment is possible if you were 65 or older at the time of the sale of your home. To qualify for this treatment the home must have been owned by you and used as your principal residence for at least five of the eight years prior to the sale.

If you meet these requirements and sell your home for an adjusted sales price of $20,000 or less, there is no tax on the profit, no matter how large it is.

If the adjusted sales price was more than $20,000 the amount of gain that is tax-free is the ratio between $20,000 and the adjusted sales price.

Assume the home was sold for an adjusted sales price of $30,000 and a profit of $15,0000 was made. Here is how you would determine your tax:

Since the ratio between $20,000 and $30,0000 is two-thirds, two-thirds of the $15,000 gain, or $10,0000 would be tax-free. The remaining $5,000 would be treated as a long-term capital gain.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for senior citizens. Once you have exercised this privilege to exclude gain you may never use it again.

Nation's Population On Farms Decreases

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's farm population declined by 300,000 last year to an estimated 9.4 million persons, according to a preliminary estimate by the Agriculture Department.

That was only about half the drop reported the previous year. In 1969, the farm population was put at 10.3 million persons, representing 5.1 per cent of the nation's total population.

The 1970 count was slightly more than 9.7 million, or 4.8 per cent of the national population. A spokesman said Thursday the preliminary estimate, not yet officially published, means the 1971 farm population was 4.4 per cent of the national figure.

As a reference point, the 1960 farm population was more than 15.6 million persons, comprising 8.7 per cent of the national total.

Meantime, the department has issued new estimates on the number of farms in the country. For 1971 the count was put at 2,876,000. The preliminary estimate for 1972 is 2,831,000, or a decline of 55,000 farms—about in line with recent trends.

The farm-number report, issued late Wednesday by the Crop Reporting Board, said the total land in farms last year was 1,117,401,000 acres. In 1972, the estimate is for 1,114,198,000—or a reduction of about 3.2 million acres.

That meant an average farm size last year of 389 acres. For 1972, the size average was put at 394 acres. A decade ago, in 1961, there were 3,821,000 farms having an average size of 306 acres.

The report said a continued disappearance of small farms along with mergers into "larger, more efficient operations" contributed most to the change in farm numbers.

Growth of cities and highway construction were the major causes of the decrease in total farm land, officials said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Wheat Institute has been given the green light for use of $2 million in developing a research and market promotion program, but the specific projects still must be developed and approved.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced the go-ahead Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the National Association of Wheat Growers in Denver.

On Thursday, however, the Agriculture Department said the "work plan" approval means money will be available to the institute for a review of recent research and promotion work. After that is completed, the institute will make specific recommendations for projects. Those will then have to be approved by the department.

'Man's Best Friend

Dogs of almost every description find a temporary home at the Sedalia Animal Shelter, 2900 West Main, after they are picked up for straying or for not wearing a license tag. Here Dennis Rogers, dog poundmaster, tries to persuade one "resident" to have her lunch at the Shelter. More stray dogs are picked up from Sedalia streets each year than there are licensed dogs, according to information from the City Clerk's office. Last fiscal year Sedalians spent more than $11,000 to handle stray dogs.

Impoundment Fees 'Lost' At City Animal Shelter

Sedalia may have lost as much as $4,215 — or more — in revenue last year because a little-known ordinance governing fees charged by the Sedalia Animal Shelter is not enforced, it was learned in a recent study.

The Democrat-Capital was told that 843 stray or dead dogs were picked up by employes of the Shelter in an 11-month period last year. Each stray animal represents a potential income of $5 a day for the city — and city ordinances stipulate that animals be kept at least five days before being disposed of.

The operation of the Animal Shelter falls under the jurisdiction of the Sedalia Police Department and Chief William Miller reported that from 80 to 90 stray dogs are picked up in the city each month.

It cost Sedalia $11,682 to run the Shelter during the 11-month period in 1971, but the income derived from impoundment fees and the sale of dog licenses came to only $1,968.95, according to City Clerk Ralph Dedrick. According to city records, there were only 681 licensed dogs in the city last year.

According to Dennis Rogers, 502 East Jackson, city poundmaster, the city routinely charges $5 for each dog picked up by its owner or would-be owner — no matter how long the animal has been at the Shelter.

When asked why the city's ordinance concerning the $5 daily charge was not enforced, Rogers said, "Well, people in Sedaliar are dog lovers. Personally, I think the fine should be what the ordinance says it should be. Then, if they pay fines like $10 or $15 at one time, they'll be careful not to let the dogs run loose again. But we charge them $5 no matter how many days," he said.

The city has two methods of disposing of stray animals — each depending on the condition of the animal at the time it is picked up by the poundmaster or his assistant, Melvin Heaper, 503 East Walnut.

A badly-injured animal is disposed of by Animal Shelter personnel — usually through the use of carbon monoxide fumes.

However, twice a month a truck from the University of Missouri's Lab Animal Medicine Department arrives at the Animal Shelter to pick up unclaimed strays weighing at least 25 pounds. Smaller animals, although not used for research purposes are also picked up. The university pays the city $1.50 for each animal, according to Miller.

Of the 843 strays picked up in 1971, Miller said, 199 were sold to the university (bringing in $298.50 in revenue), while 380 were killed. Another 264 dogs were returned to their owners, or new owners, for a revenue gain of $1,320.

Miller's report that 80 to 90 stray dogs are picked up a month in Sedalia indicates the possible loss of revenue caused by the apparent lack of enforcement of the city ordinance.

For example, 80 strays housed at the Shelter represent a possible income of $400 for the city. If they were kept for five days, and if their owners were assessed $5 for each day, that figure would jump to $2,000.

However, as Rogers pointed out, only $5 is charged and, he said, animals are sometimes kept for as long as two weeks until University of Missouri personnel arrive to pick them up.

Uncertain Over Escrow Account

Uncertainty persists among city officials concerning the establishment of a $38,420 escrow account in Third National Bank by AMCON, International Inc., for the maintenance of entranceways, driveways and parking areas at the two public housing sites in the city.

Authority for such an account was granted under a city ordinance which was to have gone into effect Sept. 7. The ordinance transfers maintenance responsibilities of the parking areas to the city for a 20-year period, with AMCON putting up the money.

Parties to the escrow agreement were the City of Sedalia, the Sedalia Housing Corp., the Sedalia Housing Authority, AMCON, and Third National Bank.

As of Wednesday, no such account existed at the bank, according to City Clerk Ralph Dedrick. He said, however, that it was his understanding that the account was to be set up sometime after Jan. 1.

Even though the city was obligated immediately with the passage of the ordinance in September, no exact date was specified when the account was to be set up.

Transferring the responsibility for the parking areas was the idea of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Herbert C. Hoffman, a Kansas City attorney for the Sedalia Housing Authority, stated during a meeting held in Mayor Jerry Jones's office in August that HUD's reason for making the change was based on alleged improper upkeep by AMCON at other public housing projects.

The actual figure to be placed in escrow was computed by City Engineer R. W. Cunningham based on current construction costs combined with the expected rise in inflation over the 20-year period. Cunningham said all maintenance work would be done by the Street and Alley Department.

Mayor Jerry Jones said he felt the money set aside in the escrow account would be adequate for the 20-year period. He said the escrow account would be drawn upon after the city had purchased materials and done the work in the parking areas.

"In all probability, such resurfacing work will not be necessary every year because the original application of hot-mix paving is expected to last at least 15 years with normal wear and tear," Jones said.

Following the passage of the 20-year maintenance period, any balance remaining in the escrow account will be returned to AMCON, Jones added.

A doctor who operates on himself has a fool for a patient.
It's an old saying, but it's never made more sense. There are some jobs in life that you just don't tackle by yourself. The preparation of your income tax should be one of them.
And that's where H & R Block, The Income Tax People, come in. H & R Block is America's largest tax service with more than 6,000 conveniently located offices to serve you. Your H & R Block representative is specially trained and can provide information on legitimate income tax benefits and opportunities that the average man on the street doesn't even know exists.
For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.
H & R Block's charges start at $5 and last year averaged under $12.50 for over 7 million returns we prepared.
And, if we make any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any interest or penalty on additional taxes due, while we do not assume the liability for the additional taxes, we will pay that interest and penalty.
Our one time fee entitles you to year 'round tax service and assistance.
Come to the company that more than 7 million Americans placed their confidence in last year. Come to the people who will fill out your next income tax return efficiently, quickly, confidentially. Come to H & R Block.
DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

Crucial Year Ahead in Vietnam Due to Enemy Gains

SAIGON (AP) — Big North Vietnamese gains in Laos and Cambodia, two major enemy buildups along South Vietnam's western borders and new challenges to U.S. air power signal a crucial year ahead for Washington and Saigon.

U.S. officials in Saigon term the situation in Laos critical. But informed sources say there are strong indications that the North Vietnamese are building up to something in South Vietnam, with 15,000 fresh troops in or en route to the central highlands and three divisions reemerging in the region of the demilitarized zone.

The consensus among American military and diplomatic officials is that the Communist campaign in Laos is designed to force Premier Souvanna Phouma to ask the United States to stop the massive bombing in his country and give North Vietnam free rein to use the country as a staging area.

"All these things they do in Laos and Cambodia are undoubtedly pointed to their long-range objective of making it easier to gain control of South Vietnam," says one American expert.

Some senior U.S. officials say the buildup in the central highlands is far bigger than any previous one in that area. But despite the buildups and the deteriorating situation in Laos, President Nixon appears to have committed himself to further withdrawal of U.S. troops in February at the rate of at least 22,500 a month.

With Korean, Thai and Australian troops also pulling out, the South Vietnamese army's regulars are spread thin. The much-heralded militia force of half a million men, which is supposed to defend the interior of South Vietnam, is often no match for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Concerned over the buildup in the central highlands and further withdrawals by its allies, the South Vietnamese government has abandoned most of its major bases in eastern Cambodia so the troops who have been there can operate closer to home with more mobility and flexibility.

However, there are no signs that the South Vietnamese will try to get the jump on the North Vietnamese with a repetition of last year's invasion into Laos. For one thing, there are not enough U.S. combat forces left in Vietnam to give them the massive support that even last year wasn't enough to make the operation successful.

There is great concern that the Communist command will attempt offensives on several fronts during the Tet celebration of the lunar new year, which begins Feb. 15.

In addition to the buildups in the central highlands and at the western end of the DMZ, small-scale fighting has increased in the Saigon region, and there are reports that two North Vietnamese regiments have crossed from Cambodia into the area surrounding South Vietnam's capital.

Senior U.S. diplomats believe the Communists will attempt an offensive in the central highlands to coincide with President Nixon's trip to Peking during the last week of February, their purpose being to embarrass him by a show of strength. These sources predict another offensive along the DMZ in the summer or fall to hurt Nixon's chances for re-election.

Says Team Symbol Is 'Racist'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The director of the Cleveland American Indian Center says the symbol used by the Cleveland Indians professional baseball team is racist, degrading and demeaning to the American Indian.

He says he plans to file a law suit seeking damages and a halt to use of the symbol.

"How long do you think the stadium would stand it if the team were called the Cleveland Negroes with a caricature of Aunt Jaemima or Little Black Sambo, and everytime a ball was hit some guy would come out and do the soft shoe?" Russell C. Means asked Friday.

Means, a Sioux who directs the center here, said a Legal Aid Society attorney would file a $9 million suit against the baseball team and its owner, Vernon Stouffer, Tuesday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court and also will seek an injunction to halt the use of the symbol.

The "Chief Wahoo" symbol shows an Indian wearing a wide, toothy grin that dominates his features. He has a prominent nose and triangular eyes under arching eyebrows that rise above a headband with a feather in it.

"The whole viewpoint America takes of the Indian is that we don't count," Means said.

"Can you envision the Washington football team called the Washington Rednecks instead of the Redskins?"

Agree to Limit Campaign Spending

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — There is a "historic agreement" by major Democratic presidential candidates to limit campaign spending in the preferential primary states, says Lawrence O'Brien, national Democratic chairman.

O'Brien, addressing a fund-raising dinner, did not elaborate on the spending limits. He emphasized the agreement as a sign of party unity.

Income From Taxes Could See Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxable income would rise by $166 billion if all loopholes in present tax laws were eliminated, a congressional committee has been told.

Joseph A. Pechman and Benjamin A. Okner of the Brookings Institution, a private research organization, said Friday it is unnecessary to "go to the extreme" of adopting a value-added tax, essentially a federal sales tax, to raise sorely needed federal income.

They said the Joint Congressional Economic Committee "will find hidden among tax expenditures a rich mine of revenue that could be used more effectively and more equitably for financing needed social programs than for subsidizing the particular groups that benefit from them."

Battle For Child Lost By One Couple

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Houston couple who let their 3-year-old daughter watch sex movies in the lounge they operate have lost their bid to regain custody of the child.

Juvenile Court Judge Robert L. Lowry ruled Friday that Adrienne Schlang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Schlang, should remain in custody of the Harris County Child Welfare Department pending a final custody hearing.

Schlang, 38, a former aerospace worker, testified in Friday's hearing that he allowed his daughter to stay at the club where movies showing sexual intercourse are shown.

Citing studies he said were made by Scandinavian researchers, Schlang said he would rather have his daughter see movies of affection than have her stay home and watch scenes of violence on television.

The child was turned over to the welfare department Saturday night after Schlang and his wife Marlene, 30, were arrested following a vice squad raid on their club. They were charged with pandering and operating a bawdy house.

Retailers Are Given New Chance

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Retailers not in compliance with Price Commission posting regulations but making bona fide attempts to do so will be given extra time, the Internal Revenue Service said Friday.

The IRS, which spot checked 2,000 Missouri retailers Jan. 7-14 for compliance under regulations under Phase 2 of the economic stabilization program, said about 25 per cent were acting in full accordance.

Others were in partial compliance, the IRS said, but those making no attempts to comply will be held in violation and liable to penalties of up to $5,000 a day.

E. C. Coyle Jr., IRS district director, said regulations require retailers with sales of less than $100,000 a year to display prominently the base price for those 40 products which have the highest dollar sales volume during the last fiscal year or those products which accounted for 50 per cent of the total dollar sales volume, whichever is less.

Retailers with sales of $100,000 or more per year, Coyle said, are required to display the base price for food and food-related (grocery store) products.

Coyle emphasized that the location of price lists must be easily accessible to the customer and must not require him to ask a store employe for access. He urged consumers to look for price lists and speak to store managers if they are absent or appear incomplete.

Group Plans Probe Of City Shootout

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The NAACP will conduct a public investigation into the explosion of gunfire on a city street which left four persons dead.

"The purpose of the hearing will be to tell the story as it actually was," Baton Rouge NAACP President D'Orsay Bryant said Friday. He said it may begin next week.

Controversy has raged since the shootout Monday over who fired the first shot. Two sheriff's deputies and two young blacks were killed.

Bryant said the hearing would be conducted along the lines of an inquiry staged by the Memphis NAACP last year in the wake of the alleged beating death by police of a young black.

In Washington, Rep. John Rarick, D-La., whose district includes Baton Rouge, called on the House Internal Security Committee to investigate "the recent Black Muslim ambush and massacre" of Baton Rouge policemen.

City officials have said a rally preceeding the shootout was organized by a Black Muslim splinter group bent on overthrowing Elijah Muhammad, 73-year-old leader of the Black Muslim nation of Islam.

However, Muhammad said Friday he doubted that Black Muslims were involved.

He told a rare gathering in his 19-story Chicago mansion Friday, "I do not deny that the people in Baton Rouge were Black Muslims. All I know is that their names were not found in the registry."

And he said, "Good Muslims are too busy going about God's work to be running around the countryside starting trouble."

Persons who do not follow the teachings of Islam may be suspended for up to seven years but "their names still remain in the registry," he said.

Muhammad said a power struggle has existed within the Black Muslim community for over 40 years but "I don't worry about that.

"Nobody's going to assassinate me and nobody's going to take over," Muhammad said. "I was put here for a purpose and I am assured that I will be able to do so by God and the prophets who wrote long before I was born."

Rarick said in a letter to Richard H. Ichord, chairman of the committee, that there were deeper motives han the overthrow of Muhammad for the shootout.

"Evidence exists which indicates that these same Muslims have been allowed to tour by caravan across state lines ... and by use of intimidation raise money and conduct membership drives without any interference from the U.S. Justice Department," Rarick said.

School Construction Bond Sales Damaged

NEW YORK (AP) — Sales of school construction bonds across the nation are being hurt by recent court rulings that public school financing through property taxes is unconstitutional, investment bankers report.

And as a result of the court decisions, some school districts are having to pay slightly more interest to make their bonds more attractive to investors, they add.

Bond dealers say the rulings have brought bond sales in Texas to a halt.

"Those school districts in the state that were planning to sell bonds are panicky," says Tom Masterson, vice president of the Houston investment banking firm of Underwood, Neuhaus & Co.

Last month a federal court held that Texas's system of school financing—based in part on local property taxes—was unconstitutional since it tied the quality of a child's education to the wealth of the district in which he lived. A similar ruling was issued last August by the California Supreme Court.

Cases stemming from the California decision have been started in more than 30 states, according to bond industry sources. Schools and states are examining alternative financing proposals.

Thomas Strand, a vice president of Springsted Inc., a St. Paul, Minn., investment counseling firm, says "Without the property tax law suits, school boards around the nation could sell more bonds and at a lower rate of interest."

Adds an officer of one large New York bank, "The court cases have...created an uncertainty about the legal standing of the bonds."

Although investment bankers agree sales are off because of the court decisions, they are unable to estimate the extent of the drop.

As a result of last month's ruling in Texas, neither the state's attorney general nor local bond counsel are willing to approve new bond issues, legal requirements for sales.

The Securities Industry Association, a group representing investment bankers, last Wednesday filed a brief in U.S. District Court in San Antonio citing the disruption of the school bond market in Texas and requesting that the ruling take effect only after an alternative to the property tax has been found.

Investment bankers estimate some school districts in other parts of the country must pay up to one tenth of one per cent more to investors than they would have before the rulings in order to overcome underwriters' reticence.

Thus a school district that wants to issue $3 million worth of bonds might have to pay an additional $3,000 per year in interest if their borrowing rate rose to 5.1 per cent from 5 per cent.

Not Dismayed By Jump In Wholesale Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — As predicted, wholesale prices jumped ahead in December after the wage-price freeze ended, but the administration says the increase could have been higher.

After declining three-tenths of 1 per cent in September-November, roughly the period President Nixon's wage-price freeze was in effect, wholesale prices went up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in December, the government said Friday.

The jump, forecast for months by administration officials as a result of ending the freeze, was not as high as expected, according to Dr. Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

"In fact," Stein told newsmen, "I was prepared to come here and explain a much bigger rise. The news, it seems to me, is how small the increase is."

Highest increases among consumables were recorded for farm products and processed foods and feeds, almost half of which are not subject to post-freeze controls. The 2.0 per cent hike accounted for slightly more than two-thirds of the entire wholesale price increase, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

The biggest boost over-all was 4.0 per cent in coal prices, which the government said reflected price increases granted to coal companies after miners won a 15 per cent pay hike.

The eight-tenths December increase brought the bureau's wholesale price index to 115.4 per cent of its 1967 level, 4.0 per cent above a year ago. This means it now costs $11.54 to buy at wholesale what $10 bought five years ago.

Stein said the price index "bulge" probably was not finished, adding: "I have no precedents on which to go, but I would think we would have two to three months of this."

Meanwhile, the Pay Board said it will review a tentative AFL-CIO United Transportation Union contract with the rail industry that has been unsettled since the wage freeze began.

The agreement covers 140,000 firemen, conductors, brakemen and other employes and provides a 42 per cent raise over 42 months and many work-rules changes.

Negotiated last Aug. 2, the contract was not approved by union members before the wage-price freeze started Aug. 15.

Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt also asked the Cost of Living Council to hold up final decision until next week on a proposal to lift wage controls from persons making $1.90 per hour or less.

If the council chooses the $1.90 figure, it would exempt an estimated 22 per cent of the nation's workers. A higher figure of $3.35 an hour advocated by some members of Congress for larger families with only one wage earner would exempt fully half of the country's wage earners, the council said.

Explains Increase

Reflecting pressures pent up by the wage-price freeze, wholesale prices recorded their steepest climb in 10 months in December. But the Administration said the rise was inevitable, less than expected and thus a hopeful sign. Dr. Herbert Stein, new chairman of President Nixon's Council on Economic Advisers, said the significance of the closely-watched wholesale price index was that over the past four months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 1.5 per cent — compared to an annual rate of 5 per cent for the eight months preceding Nixon's economic program. Manager Kills Armed Gunman In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An armed man was killed by a restaurant manager Friday evening and the manager's description of a car led to the arrest of two other suspects in a robbery attempt.

Police identified the victim as Howard L. Peete, 20, of St. Louis. They said the other two men apparently dropped Peete off at the emergency entrance of DePaul Hospital, where he died of gunshot wounds in the chest and back.

Police caught the other men about an hour after the incident at a Wishbone chicken restaurant. Booked suspected of armed robbery were Robert Moore, 31, and his brother Harry, 22, both of St. Louis.

The manager told police two men, including Peete, entered his restaurant about 4:30 p.m. and announced a robbery. The manager dropped behind a refrigerator, took a pistol from his pocket and began firing. Peete was wounded and he and the second man fled.

"Hy-X"
ONLY HENRY FIELD'S HAS IT!...
Extraordinary New Tomato
GREAT FLAVOR, EASY TO GROW

Less Foliage...More Tomatoes!

HENRY FIELD

Our customers have written us hundreds of enthusiastic letters about HY-X. HY-X plants don't get big or gawky, but grow so compact and sturdy you needn't bother to stake them. Very prolific, too: HY-X starts early, bears abundantly 'til frost. The fruit is deep scarlet, globe-shaped, full of firm yet tender "meat," not just a lot of water and seeds. HY-X won't sun scald or crack. And it grows well 'most anywhere, even in semi-arid regions too dry for ordinary tomatoes. We want you to be a HY-X fan too, so right now we're making a most generous offer . . . more than 100 seeds for only 10¢! That barely covers our postage and handling costs, so don't pass this up—get yours now!

WE'LL MAIL YOU A BIG PACKET (over 100 seeds) FOR ONLY 10¢ PPD.

A Tomato So Good It Gets "Fan Mail"!

Extension Election Announced

Pettis County residents 18 years old or older were reminded last week that Tuesday was the day set for the election of members of the University of Missouri County Extension Council here.

The candidates would each serve a two-year term. They are: Ed Minor and Jim Ripley, District 4; Gene Wells and Mrs. John Harvey Jr., District 6; Larry Cloud and Frank Maltsbarger, District 7; Mrs. Phillip Pfeiffer, Clem Ball, Dr. Robert Edmonds and Dr. Gary Evert, District 8; Mrs. Homer Garrison and Mrs. Emmett Fairfax, District 9; Winfred G. Cook and Mrs. W. R. Green, District 10.

"Every eligible citizen in the county should cast his vote for the candidates he wants to represent him on this important local council," C. W. Browning, University of Missouri Extension director for the Show-Me Area, said. The Show-Me Area includes Pettis, Henry, Johnson and Lafayette Counties.

"The candidates elected to the council will be assisting extension personnel in planning and carrying out the extension programs for Pettis County, Browning said.

Ballots were mailed to 1,000 eligible voters in the county last Monday, but those who did not receive ballots may obtain them from the Extension Center at Fourth and Lamine or by calling 827-0592, it was reported.

Ballots may be returned by mail, but must be postmarked on or before Jan. 31. In addition to mail-in ballots, a county-wide polling place will be maintained at the University Extension Office in the Federal Building.

Bitter Cold

The setting afternoon sun created this cold effect as steam rose from the Milwaukee river in the minus-nine degree temperature. A cold wave entered Milwaukee, bringing the coldest temperatures of the winter. (UPI)

Unusual Way For Arrival in World

DETROIT (AP) — Cynthia Vertin's birth certificate will be signed by a doctor, but her mother said it should be done by a water department inspector.

The baby was born in a bathroom Friday morning, while her father waited for his mother-in-law, the police and the fire department.

Mother and baby are in good condition in a hospital.

There was no word on Vertin's condition.

Say Dock Example Of River's Litter

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Last week, J. A. Driesbach, a former boat dock operator, was convicted of littering the bank of the Cumberland River—with the old, waterlogged dock.

Driesbach, 55, explained he was caught between refusal of the Metropolitan Park Commission to allow him to move it—and U.S. Corps of Engineers' orders to move it.

When he came up for sentencing at 10 a.m. Friday, Judge Frank Gray Jr. placed him on probation, until 4 p.m.

60-Year-Old Debt Finally Is Repaid

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — It was back in 1911 and he needed a bike for his job as a delivery boy for an Oklahoma City office supply firm.

He got a bike frame from his friend, Dennis Miller, and promised to pay Miller $10. He never paid.

"I am really ashamed to think of owing a debt for 60 years," read the letter from a Mesa, Ariz., resident who asked that his name not be used.

So he sent a $12.50 check this week to the local Salvation Army office and asked that it be applied to a fund for the needy in the name of Dennis Miller, "one of the nicest boys I have ever known."

Nun Has Plans For Contest

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — "I certainly am going to fight this," a Catholic nun known as "Sister Fuzz" said Friday night of a decision to suspend her indefinitely without pay from a job with the Pontoon Beach Police Department.

Sister Mary Cornelia Hawkins learned of the decision at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where she is being treated for virus pneumonia.

The nun was the subject of an Associated Press story last February about her gun-toting role as a juvenile officer for the small force on the Illinois side of the St. Louis metropolitan area.

"They didn't discuss this with me. I had no idea they were to do this," Sister Cornelia said. She earned the nickname "Sister Fuzz" from youths in Pontoon Beach.

Thursday night the village board of trustees issued the suspension on grounds Sister Cornelia had violated police regulations by attending a Nov. 9 meeting of local government officials and a member of the Madison County grand jury.

The meeting was followed by a grand jury investigation of alleged irregularities in Pontoon Beach, including charges of gambling and narcotics use. The jury exonerated the village after several weeks' investigation.

Sister Cornelia appeared before the grand jury. She has been at odds with police officials over law enforcement practices.

After the suspension Trustee Dean Rochester said the 46-year-old nun can appeal the suspension. He said a hearing would be scheduled "as soon as she feels she would like to present her case to the police commission."

Friday night, hospital officials listed Sister Cornelia's condition as satisfactory. She is a member of the Divine Sisters of Providence.

In 1835 the American Bible Society produced its first Scriptures for the blind.

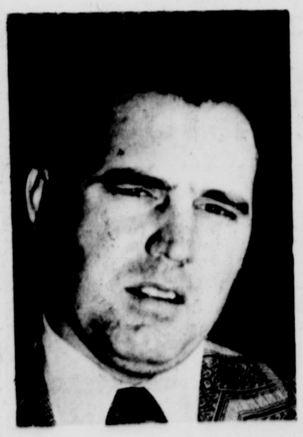
Farming Candidates For DSA Award



Paul Davis

Bill Goodwin

Paul E. Davis, 31, one of the moninees for the Outstanding Young Farmer award this year, lives with his wife Betty and their two children at Route 2, LaMonte.

An operator of a 317-acre dairy farm, Davis has made improvements on his home, as well as building a 96-free stall barn for his stock. He has landscaped a lagoon on his acreage, as well as constructing a new Grade A barn, complete with milking equipment. He has also added a 3,500 bushel grain bin, bulk tank and holding lot to his operation.

A former Star Farmer Award winner who took FFA training in high school, Davis has been active in farming for 12 years.

He has been a member of Mid-America Young Cooperators for three years, serving as region cochairman, as well as serving as a 4-H Dairy and Beef leader. He is also a member of the Mid-America Dairymen Inc., LaMonte Board of Education, Dairy Herd Improvement Association, Missouri Holstein Friesian Association and the LaMonte Baptist Church.

Davis was nominated for the award by the University of Missouri Extension Center.

William E. Goodwin, 29, Route 2, Sedalia, has been in the dairy and small grain farming business for 10 years, operating 377 acres one-half mile east-northeast of the city limits.

Goodwin started operation of his father's farm in 1962, and in the past ten years he has built a two-car garage, purchased larger and heavier farm equipment, built a silo with an automatic feeding system and feeding floor, installed a 5,000 bushel grain bin and dryer system, purchased an additional 160 acres of land, installed a new water system, and also landscaped his yard, as well as removing some fences to facilitate farming operations at his acreage.

Goodwin has also been active in soil improvement, erosion control, water management and reforestation on his land.

He is an active member in many organizations, including Missouri Farm Bureau, Production Credit Association, Sedalia Jaycees, Cold Spring Lodge No. 274 AF & AM, Smithton United Methodist Church, Pure Milk Producers Association, Mid-American Dairy Association and the Pettis County Dairy Extension Council.

Goodwin was nominated by the Pettis County Farm Bureau.

Information on remaining nominees will be published next Sunday.

Astronaut Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin, shown in this 1971 picture, the second man to set foot on the moon, said Friday he is retiring from the Air Force because his chances for promotion were hurt by his 10 years with the space program. Aldrin, 41, and Neil A. Armstrong made the historic moon landing in July, 1969. Now a colonel, Aldrin was the first U.S. astronaut to hold a doctoral degree. (UPI)

Maoist Professor at Stanford Fights To Retain His Position

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Prof. H. Bruce Franklin, a Maoist who advocates the overthrow of the American capitalist system, is fighting to remain on the faculty of Stanford University so he can express his revolutionary beliefs.

Stanford President Richard Lyman has recommended to the university's trustees that the 37-year-old associate professor of English be fired for allegedly inciting antiwar demonstrations on campus last February to protest the invasion of Laos.

After Lyman's announcement Sunday, Franklin said he had no hope the trustees would reverse the president's decision, adding that he would appeal the dismissal in court. The trustees are not expected to consider the matter until later this month.

Franklin claims his case marks the first time an American university has tried to fire a tenured professor "on political grounds."

He said he has "a political, moral and even a legal responsibility" to see that Stanford students are not deprived of "the ability to hear my ideas and those of other revolutionaries."

"The heart of the issue," Franklin said, is that "they're not going to allow one professor at the university to say that the university should be run by poor working people."

A Stanford spokesman denies Franklin's contention about dismissal of a tenured teacher. He said Wisconsin State University regents last October dismissed tenured Asst. Prof. William L. Lafferty, whom the university said encouraged student demonstrations on the Whitewater campus in spring 1970.

A seven-member faculty advisory board recommended to Lyman Jan. 5 that Franklin be dismissed with pay up to Aug. 31. The board based its 5-2 recommendation on more than one million words of testimony during a six week hearing.

Franklin said at a news conference after the release of the board's recommendation that he hoped there would be a violent reaction on campus.

"They exposed the fact that there is no free speech at Stanford or at any other university in this country," he said.

At that news conference, Franklin's wife Jane stood next to him holding an unloaded carbine. Franklin said it symbolized Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung's dictum that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

To date, no violence has erupted on this suburban campus, 30 miles south of San Francisco, which had been having a relatively quiet year until bombs did extensive damage to the linear accelerator Dec. 7.

There have been several demonstrations protesting the dismissal recommendations, the largest attracting a crowd of about 400. A band of sympathizers occupied the Stanford chapel Sunday, Jan. 9, renaming it the "Bruce Franklin Memorial Church."

Franklin, an expert on Herman Melville and science fiction, was suspended by Lyman last Feb. 12, two days after antiwar protesters occupied and shut down the campus computer center. Franklin joined the Stanford faculty in 1961 and gained tenure in 1965.

Lyman brought four charges against him which he said warranted dismissal, three involving the camputer center occupation and one disruption of a speech by former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

It unanimously found him innocent of participating in disruptions that forced cancellation of Lodge's speech Jan. 11, 1971.

Announce Schedule Of Courses

State Fair Community College has made available the list of evening classes to be offered in the Spring semester, starting Jan. 24.

For those interested in earning an Associate of Arts degree, academic transfer courses in art appreciation, drawing, wildlife conservation, English composition I and II, United States history before and after 1865, general psychology, general sociology, and public speaking will be offered. For those with the previous required courses classes in principles of accounting II, business law II, and piano class II will be available.

Vocational-technical courses offered include business communications, personnel management, salesmanship, human relations, safety management, and business math for those interested in acquiring the Supervision and Management Certificate.

The automotive technology program presents courses giving information on power plants, cooling and lubrication systems, power train systems, and frame brakes and suspension systems.

Fundamentals of arc and gas welding, advanced welding, blueprint reading, basic electronic circuits, pharmacology, and a plastic institute will be included in the spring semester course offerings.

Also available are individualized courses in shorthand and typing that allow a student to learn and proceed at his own speed, enrolling in the next course upon completion of the present one when it has been mastered.

For those adults who did not have the opportunity to receive a grade school or high school education, the adult learning center will again be available to help attain these goals.

Enrollment for the thirty evening courses offered will be held Jan. 19 and 20. Further information about the courses is available at the student personnel office of the college.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Gunn-Williams Married

(Democrat-Capital Service)

SMITHTON — Wedding vows were exchanged Dec. 24 between Miss Beverly June Williams, daughter of Mr. Calvin C. Williams and the late Mrs. Calvin Williams, Clinchport, Va., and George Robert Gunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory C. Gunn, Malta Bend.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony at the Smithton United Methodist Church was the Rev. Earl F. Dillon.

Mrs. Clara Hiltenburg and Mrs. Frances Wagenknicht played a medley of Christmas and wedding music on the piano and violin.

The bride wore a floor length self-constructed gown of white polyester knit with a stand up collar, bell sleeves and a wide sash finished with white fringe. Her bouquet was centered with red and white carnations, encircled with wide white lace, and intermingled with Christmas greenery and red and green velvet ribbon streamers.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Bruce Spear who wore a street length dress of purple crepe. She carried a nosegay of purple and white carnations, intermingled with Christmas greenery and purple and white velvet ribbon streamers.

Best man was Bruce Spear.

The Rev. and Mrs. Dillon and daughter were hosts to a reception in their home after the wedding.

The couple will live in Enterprise, Ala., where the groom is a student at the Enterprise Junior College, majoring in police science. The bride will begin study this spring at the junior college, majoring in computer science.

Named Outstanding Military Wives

WHITEMAN AFB — Mrs. William Perdue and Mrs. Lawrence Knutson have been selected to represent Whiteman Air Force Base in the 1971 Outstanding Military Wife of the Year Contest.

Mrs. Perdue, a Thompson, N.D. native, represents the Noncommissioned Officers' Wives' Club while Mrs. Knutson, of Watertown, N.Y., represents the Officers' Wives' Club. Both ladies were chosen on a basis of their work in both the military and civilian communities.

Their nominations will be forwarded, along with the selections from other Strategic Air Command (SAC) bases, to SAC Headquarters in Omaha, Nebraska. The representative selected at that level of competition will compete with the wives selected by other major Air Force commands located throughout the world.

Mrs. Perdue's husband is a Minuteman missile electronics technician in Whiteman's 351st Missile Maintenance Squadron and Mrs. Knutson's husband is a Minuteman missile combat crew commander in the 508th Strategic Missile Squadron. Both couples reside at Whiteman AFB, the Knutsons with their two children, Kirsten Phyllis and Eric Lawrence.

Mrs. Lawrence Knutson

Mrs. William Perdue

Mrs. Knutson holds a bachelor of science degree and a masters' degree in sociology from the State University of New York at Plattsburgh. Mrs. Perdue obtained her bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Maysville (N.D.) College. Both have been teachers and Mrs. Perdue is now a tutor at the Whiteman AFB Elementary School.

As a member of the Minuteman Radio Club, and its present secretary, Mrs. Perdue participated in the club sponsored "Holiday Coffee Stop" for travelers at Knob Noster, during last year's Labor Day holiday. Free coffee, soft drinks and pastries offered travelers a chance to rest and relax from the pressures of holiday driving. Mrs. Perdue was publicity chairman for this activity. She also takes an active interest in the Children Have A Potential (CHAP) program for handicapped children and in Medical Center Nursing Home visitations at Warrensburg, Mo.

Both ladies are active in their respective wives' club and in the Whiteman AFB Catholic Chapel programs.

Mrs. Knutson was assistant curator of the Robert Louis Stevenson Cottage, Saranac Lake, N. Y., a residence hall counselor at the State University of New York, a member of the Clinton County N. Y. Historical Society and has assisted the Gril Scouts of America. She is a member of the Phi Kappa Chi social sorority.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I believe every artist should take more of a hand in contacting people and doing things with people. Relying only on managers and public relations people isn't right. We're all part of the world. We should be bringing music to kids any way that's in good taste . . . It has to be done because life without music is no life."—Pianist Hilde Somer.

"I handle them with care and always wear very thick gloves. You have to go about these things in a sensible way."—Doris Mager, who cares for sick bald eagles.

"They (movie-makers) had better start remembering that the purpose of entertainment is to entertain—not, like a giant PTA meeting, to enlighten."—Actress Sandy Duncan, in an interview.

CWU Announces Year's Plans And Activities

Mrs. James Eschbacher, president of Church Women United of Sedalia, presided over the first meeting of the year Wednesday, at Calvary Episcopal Church.

Upcoming activity dates for the year announced were February 20, Blanket Sunday; April 17, clothing drive for Church World Service; February 7, food commodities distribution; March 3, World Day of Prayer.

Projects sponsored by Church Women United for the coming year are: Operation Wheels, Church World Service clothing drives, volunteer services for food commodities distribution, Sunday school for retarded children, poverty program, bible school for retarded children and international gift shop.

Newly appointed chairmen named were Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied, publicity; Mrs. I. H. Lehmer, calling committee; Mrs. Zimmerschied, gift shop; Mrs. Geraldine Ford, commodities volunteers; and Mrs. F. D. Allee, Operation Wheels.

It was noted that CWU provided six children with toys from Santa over the Christmas holidays, and donated money to a needy family for food.

It was also reported that much assistance to the Migrant Ministry in Bootheel Missouri was given through the women's organization of First Christian Church with used clothing, layettes and money for diapers.

HITS BUSINESS, TOO

DALLAS (AP) — Dope is no respecter of persons or class and American industry is regrettably having to admit it is beginning to suffer drug problems.

John Healey, special assistant to the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, carried this grim message to the American Society for Personnel Administration.

In one recent survey, he said, more than half of 222 businesses indicated they had drug abuse problems among employes.

DIANA Candidates Are Named By Rho Tau

The Distinguished International Academy of Noble Achievement award will be given to a local woman Jan. 22 at an afternoon tea at the Farm and Home building. The award is sponsored by Rho Tau chapter of ESA and is given to a woman who has unselfishly given of herself to a remarkable degree in some area of service which benefits others.

Nominees for the local award are named by local organizations. Judging is done on the basis of an entry form filled out by the nominating organization and authorized by the candidate. A committee selected from the sorority will select five finalists and an independent panel of judges will choose the winner who will then compete at the national level.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha is an international sorority which serves as a leadership-service organization. The DIANA award is given annually to a woman who exemplifies in her daily life the wholesome and inspiring qualities of love, faith and courage. Chairman for the local award is Mrs. James Edwards. Last year's winner was Mrs. Bill McLaughlin, 1402 South Mildred.

Mrs. Anna Lee Bail, 1206 South Murray, has been entered as a candidate by Cosmopolitan Junior Women's Club. She is the mother of two boys, ages 12 and 9.

Mrs. Bail is a member of the Cosmopolitan Women's Club, having served both as chaplain and chairman of the courtesy committee. She is the president of the Washington School PTA and is delegate to the PTA Council meetings.

Mrs. Bail, who is quite active in her church, is director of Youth III Dept. and serves as a member of the state executive board of Baptist Women.

Mrs. Bail is also active in the Little League Baseball and enjoys camping with her sons.

Mrs. Fred Davis, mother of two children, 15 and 10, as well as the 17-year-old American Field Service Student from Colombia, has been nominated by State Fair Community College Dames Club.

Mrs. Davis, who lives in Walnut Hills, attended Northwest Missouri State College and earned a bachelor of science degree from there in elementary education.

She is a member of the First Baptist Church Youth, American Association of University Women, League of Women Voters, Mark Twain and Smith-Cotton PTAs, SFCC Dames Club, Sorosis, PEO, Bothwell Hospital Auxiliary and the Cosmopolitan Junior Women's Club.

Mrs. Davis, who enjoys sewing, cooking, music, reading, and sports, spends much time with her family. She entertains college personnel in her home, is a leader of Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts, is the director of the primary church choir and a youth leader in church.

Mrs. Davis was one of five persons elected to write "Know Your Town and County," a publication which will be available early this year.

Mrs. Joseph Doggett, 411 West 21st, has been selected by the Jaycee Wives.

A clerk typist at State Fair Community College, Mrs. Doggett attended Central Methodist College, East Central State College and Central Missouri State College.

As president of the Jaycee Wives, Mrs. Doggett is involved in all of the committees and projects of the auxiliary, including the TV Auction for the Children's Therapy Center, the retarded children's Christmas party, the Memorial Day races, the Jerry Lewis telethon for muscular dystrophy and the rubella vaccination clinic.

Her other main area of interest lies in her church work at Wesley Methodist Church. She and her husband recently organized a young married couples class there.

Mrs. Doggett was named Outstanding Jaycee Wife of the Quarter and last year was a nominee for the Outstanding Young Woman Contest.

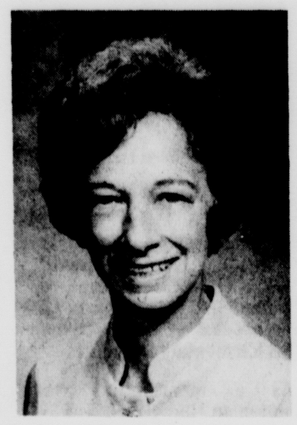
Mrs. Robert Edmonds



Mrs. John B. Ellison Jr.

Mrs. James Eschbacher

Mrs. Douglas Kneibert

Major Marjorie Weber

Mrs. Robert Edmonds, 2413 South Stewart, is the American Association of University Women's candidate for the DIANA Award. Mother of two daughters, ages 10 and 8, Mrs. Edmonds enjoys sewing for them, cooking and collecting cookbooks.

Mrs. Edmonds has a bachelor of science degree in education from the University of Missouri and she is a member of the Pi Lamda Theta education honorary fraternity.

Among Mrs. Edmonds' activities are Brownie Scouts, Helen G. Steele Music Club, Hospital Auxiliary, the AAUW, and Medical Auxiliary.

Organizer of the local League of Women Voters in 1969, Mrs. Edmonds serves as its president.

She is active in the PTA, having served as first vice president, health chairman and legislative chairman of the council.

She has been appointed by Mayor Jerry Jones to serve a three year term on the environmental committee and she coordinated the local ABC (Action Before Crisis) conference which was held in two sessions last December at Wesley Methodist Church.

Within her church Mrs. Edmonds has taught vacation church school, Sunday School, is a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service, and is chairman of a work area on missions.

She was a candidate for the Outstanding Young Woman Award in 1970 and her name appears in the 1971 volume of Outstanding Young Women in America.

Mrs. John B. Ellison Jr., 2236 West Third, is the candidate of the League of Women Voters. Mother of two daughters, ages 21 and 17, Mrs. Ellison enjoys sewing and writing.

She served as voters service chairman of the League of Women Voters; acted as chairman of the Poverty Action Corps, an ecumenical group that secures used furniture and household items for the needy; and been chairman of the Commission of Community Concerns of the United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Ellison has helped families settle into the new public housing and she is involved in securing drivers for commodities transportation each month. She assists in obtaining clothing for the Clothes Closet and spends some time regularly at the Heritage House, a church sponsored cooperative crafts and gift shop.

Mrs. James Eschbacher, 618 West Sixth, mother of three girls, ages 13, 11 and 5, has been nominated by Beta Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Mrs. Eschbacher is ecumenical action chairman of the Church Women United and as such is in charge of the group's clothing drives, Sunday School for the retarded and vacation church school for retarded. She is chairman of the volunteer drivers in the food commodity program, co-chairman of the international gift shop and city chairman of CROP for 1971.

She is also service chairman of the Beta Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, and executive board member of both Smith-Cotton and Mark Twain PTAs, a cadet leader in the Girl Scouts and a volunteer chairman of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare.

Crusade chairman for the Pettis County American Cancer Society drive, Mrs. Eschbacher was also a 1970 and 1971 nominee for Outstanding Young Woman of Sedalia.

Aside from her community activities, Mrs. Eschbacher enjoys camping and sewing and working with her children.

Mrs. Douglas Kneibert, Route 2, has been nominated for the DIANA Award by the Jaycee Wives. She is the mother of two sons, ages 12 and 7.

Mrs. Kneibert, who is attending State Fair Community College for an associate of arts degree is a member of the Episcopal Churchwomen, Jaycee Wives, League of Women Voters, Helen G. Steele Music Club, the Sedalia Symphony and Smithton PTA.

Mrs. Kneibert is primarily involved in fine arts and church work, having done art sketches for several civic and religious groups and playing the flute in the Symphony. She illustrated an historical album for the Sedalia Symphony Society and researched and illustrated drawings on the old Maple Leaf Club for the Helen G. Steele Music Club. Her hand-made religious figurines were sold at Christmastime to aid women's work in the church. Mrs. Kneibert was the co-organizer of an interdenominational bible study group held last summer and is a Sunday School teacher as well.

She was named Outstanding Mrs. Jaycee until last Spring and was chairman of the Sedalia-Pettis County Cancer Crusade.

Major Marjorie A. Weber, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Pettis and Benton counties, has been selected as the Business and Professional Women's Club candidate.

An ordained minister, Major Weber is a certified social worker, counselor, youth worker, chaplain of BPW and the liaison person between the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association and the Pettis County Council on the Aging.

Major Weber began her Salvation Army career 23 years ago when she became a commissioned officer from the William Booth Memorial Training College.

Before coming to Sedalia she assisted and has been in charge of a number of churches in Missouri and southern Illinois, has served as an assistant to the public relations director of the Salvation Army of Missouri and southern Illinois, and has been in charge of the Family Service Department of Divisional Headquarters in St. Louis.

Last December, Major Weber attended the White House Conference on the Aging held in Washington D. C.

She started the Golden Agers Club in 1958 for persons over 55 years old, and was a charter member of the Altrusa Club.

Major Weber was the 1963 recipient of the Outstanding Young Woman Contest.

Wishard Button Married

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Wedding vows were exchanged Jan. 15 between Miss Penni Wishard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durward Wishard, Warsaw, and David Allen Button, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Button, Warsaw.

Pink topiary trees and baskets of pink gladioli and white mums graced the altar of the United Methodist Church where the candlelight ceremony was held.

The bride chose a formal gown of ribbed satin and embroidered lace. The high neckline and long puffed sleeves were accented with an embroidered floral design. The modified empire silhouette fell into folds to form the removable watteau chapel train.

The bride's lace edged chapel veil of silk illusion was secured to a caplet of venice lace and satin ribbon. She held an ethereal cascade of stephanotis, red roses, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Jeniffer Green and bridesmaids were Mrs. Patty Barnes and Miss Margie Button, sisters of the groom, and Miss Gloria Alcola.

The groom's sister, Miss Lucinda Button, was the flower girl.

Ring bearer was the bride's cousin, Shannon Anderson.

Danny Button, brother of the groom served as best man and groomsmen were Bobby Barnes, Steve Mills and Benny Galloway. Attending as ushers were Keith Harrison and Gavin Fenwick.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Sedalia where the groom attends State Fair Community College.

Mexican Wedding Unites Diego and Satterwhite

Democrat-Capital Service

MEXICO CITY, MEX. — Miss Luisa Noemi Fuentes y de Diego, daughter of Mrs. Noemi de Diego de Fuentes, Mexico City, Mex., became the bride of Harry L. Satterwhite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Satterwhite, 510 West 11th, Sedalia, Dec. 29 at the Glesia Santa Rosa Delima Church with the Rev. Tomas Redondo, officiating.

An all male choir sang throughout the ceremony and accompanied the violin solo.

Maiden of the lasso was Miss Magdalena Rodriguez and maiden of the bouquet was Rosario Cahpa. Miss Geniln Pino was maiden of the rings. The attendants were dressed in purple velveteen floor length dresses.

Carrying the missal and rosary was Miss Rebecca Barbour, niece of the groom, and Miss Lynda Satterwhite, niece of the groom, carried the arras, 13 gold coins. Both girls were dressed in floor length gowns of pink crepe with white lace sleeves. They wore pink bows in their hair.

The acolyte was Joel Antoniao Montalvo.

Serving as witnesses were Manuel Fuentes de Diego, brother of the bride; the bride's mother; Kenneth L. Satterwhite, brother of the groom and the mother of the groom.

The couple will reside in Valencia, Venezuela, South America, where the groom is employed by the Chrysler Corp.

Guests attending the wedding from Sedalia were Mrs. Harry B. Satterwhite, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Satterwhite and family, Miss Susan Lees and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Barbour and family.

Petree-Hammond Wed

The Rev. Eugene Trice officiated at the Dec. 31 wedding of Miss Teresa Lea Petree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Petree, 913 East Ninth, to Kenneth Roy Hammond, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Hammond, 1315 East Tenth, at the Epworth United Methodist Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white long sleeved street length dress of double knit. The empire bodice was trimmed in silver. The bride wore silver accessories and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Serving as best man was Bob Craig.

Miss Dorothy Ann Petree was in charge of the guest book and Karen Sue Petree and Vickie Lynn Petree were in charge of the gift table. All are sisters of the bride.

The couple will reside in Jefferson City where both are employed at the State Building.

Focus on Lips

Lips are the focal point of attention this season. But not only on the face. Lacquer lips, bracelets, pins and rings are being seen as novel accessories.

Pea Jacket

The more sophisticated version of the navy pea jacket is navy wool with pewter buttons, belted in the back with bigger pockets and wider lapels.

Para-Pants

The paratrooper's pants — big on the Paris fashion scene — come in body-clinging wool jersey with matching tunic to give a feminine look to an otherwise manly outfit.

Soccer Look

For the very short tunic over a leotard, add a pair of bold-colored, thigh-high socks over textured tights with laced shoes. It's a soccer player look but it just might appeal to you.

Club Notes

The Happy Homemakers Extension Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Rudy Rehmer.

Mrs. Rehmer gave the devotional and Mrs. Richard Gross conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Rehmer gave a discussion on how to escape from a fire in the home.

The Southside Co-Liners Monday meeting was called to order by Marvin Logan, president.

Up and Down

As the hemlines go down the neckline gets higher for even more coverage. The clingy long-sleeved turtleneck changes a basic skirt into an appropriate evening outfit.

Indian Art To Be Featured At Sorosis

"Indian Art" will be the topic of Antowine Warrior, an American Indian, who will speak for the Sorosis Club on Monday, at the Heard Memorial Club House.

Warrior has been an artist for 12 years but has not entered the field commercially. He has his paintings on display at his home in Kansas City. He says, "I paint because I must. If someone comes by and sees a painting that he likes I usually sell it, but the money isn't the important thing. The important thing is the young Indian today.

"Our youth is lacking in pride because they cannot compete with the other young people economically or socially. I am trying to show them through my painting that these things aren't important. Being an Indian is what is important. We are a unique people with something worth holding on to."

Soft Colors

Whatever colors you choose to shadow and highlight the eyes be sure they're well blended. Do this with a brush or finger tips. The effect should be soft, never harsh.

Boot Look

Boots designed to be worn especially with pants are cut just above the ankle. These boots are particularly good under stove-pipe or straight-leg pants since they keep the slim line of an outfit.

COLOR IT RED

For the last few seasons, women have been wearing the subdued, natural look in makeup. This winter, color has returned to the scene, in fashion and in beauty. The really big color news is red. The look is reminiscent of the silent screen stars, with the accent on a full, sensuous mouth, color on the cheeks and defined eye makeup. If you want to be a leader this year, try red. It's being shown everywhere, and with a clear, smooth complexion and becoming hairdo, you'll make a bright, attractive picture for the cold days ahead.

Speaking of a becoming hairdo, it's time you visited us for a change of hair fashion topped off with color. Artistic Coiffures, 1501 South Limit, Sedalia. "Quality Products, Personal Service."

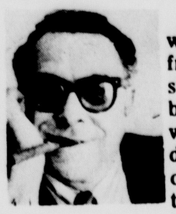
WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Jacqueline Cochran was the first woman to break the sound barrier and to fly a jet across the Atlantic. She holds the women's air speed record, The World Almanac says. She flew faster than sound in a Canadair F-86 Sabrejet at Edwards AFB, Calif., in 1953. She was one of four outstanding American aviation pioneers named to the Aviation Hall of Fame in 1971.

Art Buchwald

Will the REAL Howard Hughes . . .

WASHINGTON — There is far more at stake in the Howard Hughes-McGraw Hill-Life magazine affair than whether Mr. Hughes did or did not sell his autobiography for publication.



Buchwald

The American people, who have been reeling from one credibility crisis to another, are now being asked to decide whether two of the most distinguished publishing companies in this country or one of the richest men in the world are telling the truth.

The evidence is strong on both sides. Howard Hughes in his famous telephone interview says there is not a shred of truth in it. McGraw Hill and Life both insist they have the real thing and plan to go ahead and publish the autobiography no matter what Mr. Hughes says.

The problem for the public, which up until this time has remained neutral, is that Mr. Hughes is such a mystery man that we don't even know what he looks like any more, and it's causing tremendous paranoia in everyone's home.

For example the other night my family was watching the news, and suddenly Hubert Humphrey came on the screen to announce he was once again a candidate for President.

"You know," my wife said, "it's funny, but I get the feeling that that isn't REALLY Hubert Humphrey."

"How can you say that?" I said, looking closer at the screen.

"Suppose," she said, "Just suppose, that person was Howard Hughes."

"Impossible," I said. "I know Hubert Humphrey. That's his voice. Besides why would Howard Hughes want to be Hubert Humphrey?"

"Nobody knows why Howard Hughes does things," she said. "It would be a perfect disguise for him. Everyone would think he was locked up in the Bahamas, and all the time he would be going around the country making speeches and meeting people and looking for new things to invest in."

"I can't believe it," I said, with my face pressed as close to the screen as I could get it.

"Well, we all know Humphrey has no money. It's very interesting that he would announce for President right after Howard Hughes denied he had sold his autobiography."

"I'm sure it's just a coincidence," I said. "You have to come up with something more concrete than that."

By then Hubert Humphrey had faded from the screen, and after a commercial we were shown films of Sheik Mujibur Rahman being welcomed in Bangladesh by his supporters.

My wife said, "Did you notice his fingernails?"

"What's wrong with his fingernails?" I said.

"They're short. Howard Hughes said in his press conference that he had short fingernails."

"Lots of people have short fingernails. Wait a minute. You don't think Sheik Mujibur Rahman is Howard Hughes!"

"I'm not saying he is, and I'm not saying he isn't. But look at his hair. Howard Hughes said he cuts his own hair. The sheik looks as if he cuts his own hair, too."

"You're going bonkers," I said.

"Well, why didn't he say that he wasn't the sheik in the interview?"

The news program went to another commercial and then gave an interview with Ralph Nader. I watched my wife carefully. Finally she shook her head and said, "No, he's too young."

The final segment of the show showed pictures of Africa, natives dancing, drums beating and eventually the camera closed in on Mrs. Richard Nixon wearing a native dress and a towering headdress.

My wife sat up in her chair and said, "Of course. Why hadn't I thought of it!"

"My God," I cried. "You don't think Pat Nixon is really Howard Hughes?"

She just smiled. "I'm not ruling it out. Everyone knows the real Mrs. Nixon hates to fly."

The Chatter

I heard a lot of noisy chirps;
Now what was all the chatter?
I looked out the window
To see what was the matter.
And there in my Beauty Bush
I saw quite a crowd
Of little birds conversing
In their language — pretty loud;
I had no idea now
What they were discussing
But from the tone of them
I thought they must be fussing,
A political convention —
Or do birds have politics?
Was it some mud-slinging?
Or maybe throwing brick?
What were they trying to settle?
Was it some discrimination?
Or were they stressing viewpoints
On female liberation?
Was it some confession
Where each bared its bird soul,
Or was it a group of young birds
Attempting Rock and Roll?
It made me think of gatherings
With chatter I have heard
When everyone was talking
And no one listened to a word;
I don't know the bird language
Not a word that they might say
But I think they must have had it out
For all at once they flew away.

The Sedalia Capital

Too Poor To Meet Federal Standards

Is it possible to be too poor to qualify for public housing?

Strange as it may seem, the answer is yes. At least this is the situation temporarily facing the Sedalia Housing Authority, as brought out at its meeting Thursday night.

The Authority was informed by its executive director that the public housing program is not making ends meet because there are currently too many occupants who are unable to pay even the minimum needed to keep the operation solvent.

Costs of running the program must be met with local rental funds plus the federal contribution. Since the latter figure is fixed, the local payments must average $33.06 per month per unit to stay solvent, as explained by the executive director.

Some public housing occupants are unable to pay even the minimum amount necessary to achieve this average. In addition, a few families require assistance to meet utility payments, it was revealed Thursday.

A factor in this unusual state of affairs is the Brooke Amendment to the federal public housing law. Named for Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, it specifies that no public housing occupant can be required to pay more than 25 per cent of his net income in rent.

Thus the Housing Authority is faced with a minimum local payment it must make every month to the federal government, plus a maximum charge it can levy against occupants.

Both regulations make sense, and are necessary to the good management of any public housing program. But the effect can be cruel at times, as evidenced by the current lid placed on those families who are most in need.

Perhaps the most dismaying aspect of the whole problem, however, is the knowledge that there are many families in Sedalia who can't scrape together even the pittance required to get into public housing. For them it must be a cruel winter indeed.

"I appreciate your proposal, Henry, but when you threw in the fact that single people pay up to 20 per cent more in federal income taxes than married people with the same income—I'm afraid you turned me off!"

Merry-Go-Round

Pennsylvania Solon King of Kickbacks

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The men who write the nation's laws should be expected to obey them. But Rep. J. Irving Whalley, the eminent diplomat-legislator from Windber, Pa., has shown a flagrant disregard for the federal law against collecting kickbacks from public employes.

The short, balding bank president, Ford dealer and former UN delegate has now been caught in a veritable smorgasbord of kickbacks.

We have already published the affidavit of a Whalley aide who charged that he was required to pay more than $1,000 from his government salary to the congressman.

In another case, we documented how another aide kicked back more than $1,500 in the form of free job printing.

Now we can disclose that Whalley required a third staff member, Evander "Van" Holden, to put a large percentage of his government paycheck into a joint bank account with Whalley's trusted hometown secretary, Gilda Lesko.

From this account, Holden had to draw his travel costs, meals and other expenses incurred doing field work for Whalley. Holden was required to account for his expenses exactly as if the bank account belonged to the congressman.

So tight was the wealthy Whalley, who claims he has spent $75,000 on charitable donations, that some of his expenses were left for Holden to pay when they traveled together.

Holden would chauffeur Whalley between Windber and Washington, with the congressman usually snoozing on a makeshift bed set up for him in the car. When they stopped for gas, Holden paid the bill.

These payments, and many others, clearly were kickbacks and Holden began to worry about them. After 13 months on Whalley's payroll, Holden finally quit.

Recalling the experience, Holden told us: "Mr. Whalley explained it (the kickback arrangement) to me when I took the job. 'This is the way the office works,' he said."

Besides the kickback scandal, Whalley also put political cronies, editors and campaign workers on his House payroll in violation of House rules. The only congressional work they did was to clip press notices and pass out election petitions.

By paying influential Republicans from House funds, Whalley sewed up their campaign support. Often, the usually savvy politicians and editors were convinced for a time by Whalley's smooth talk that they were doing no wrong.

From our investigation of more than a dozen unusual House "clerks" hired by Whalley, here is a sampling:

Merle Beam, a straight-talking Windber ex-junior high school principal, was paid almost $4,000 in one six-month stretch to handle billboard advertising for Whalley's campaigns and do writing chores and contact work. "I went to a lawyer to see if it was legal," Beam told us. "He said it was. But I thought it was questionable, so I quit. Whalley's a manipulator, I can tell you that."

Editor Paul Fuller of the Meyersdale Republican, formerly of the Somerset American, has been paid almost $2,500 from House "clerk hire" funds. Fuller did political and other chores for Whalley and handled pro-Whalley stories all, sad to relate, without telling his readers Whalley was paying him. Fuller told us he saw no conflict of interest.

GOP Mayor Olin Horton of Saxton in Bedford County is also publisher-editor of the weekly Broad Top Bulletin. Whalley has paid him almost $3,000 since 1967 in House funds as an aide. Horton good-humoredly advised us that "my phone bill looks like the national debt" as a result of his political and other contact work for Whalley. But Horton has also seriously searched his soul on the ethics of his "staff" work. "I should never have gotten involved in this sort of thing," he told us.

Madelyn Potter is a former secretary to the Mifflin County GOP party and a hard-working mother of three. She handled Whalley's election petitions and passed out his campaign literature. For these political chores, she has collected more than $3,700 in House paychecks since 1969. "I never had a good feeling about it," the earnest Mrs. Potter told us. "I kept asking, 'Is there anything wrong with this?' And he kept saying, 'There is nothing wrong.'"

Myra Fields, chief voter registrar for Franklin County and treasuer of the 55,000-member Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, was another Whalley "clerk." She has received more than $3,600 in House pay since 1970. Like Fuller, she sees no conflict in her job as a vote registrar, her GOP connections and her pay from Whalley.

Esther Beutman, a GOP precinct worker, labors for Whalley at election time. For her missionary work before civic clubs and other groups, Whalley put her on the public payroll for a month. Her pay was $499, but she says she would have been a Whalley worker even without this sweetener.

We have turned up other GOP wheelhorses on Whalley's "clerk hire" payroll who actually performed political chores for him in his district.

Baffled by this panoply of political cronyism and kickbacks, we called Whalley at his Windber home and asked him how he justified it. "They are taking the place of field workers," he explained. "Without them, I would have to set up many district offices. This way, I can give the people the services they expect."

As for their "duties," Whalley insisted any "political work is indirect." And when we breathed the word "kickback" to him, he interrupted, saying primly, "Oh my goodness, no."

We will have another report on the Wonderful World of Whalley in a future column.

HEW Head Will Work For Boss

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson is anxious to start campaigning for his boss Richard Nixon. He told the Washington Press Club recently that his staff gave him a set of colored balls for Christmas to juggle, because they said he was always having to juggle the Congress, the White House, other agencies, and even the public.

His department employs 170,000 civil servants. The budget has increased an additional $9 billion this year. He says the public must come to some realization of government expense. "We can't go on writing promissory notes. In welfare our priority must be the children of lower income families. Head Start should be extended to reach more children," he said.

President Nixon is now an official candidate for another term in office. He will not campaign in any primaries. He says his speeches will be very low key. As President he will defend his record.

With his cabinet members, members of Congress, and all the Democratic aspirants out speech-making and the President traveling to China and Moscow, who will be on hand to run the government? Computers?

Members of the White House Press Corps have just received the annual administration report from Herbert C. Klein, director of communications for the Executive Branch. The 33-page legal size paper document deals with the President's leadership for prosperity; for law, justice and opportunity; for youth and aging; for tomorrow's needs; for agriculture and the environment; for health and drug control; and finally for peace.

Reading this report is excellent preparation for the President's State of the Union message which he plans to deliver to joint session of Congress Jan. 20.

The two new Supreme Court justices, Powell and Rehnquist, wasted no time before they went to work. Immediately after their wives had helped them with their robes following the private oath-taking ceremony, they took their seats in the Supreme Court building. Justice Powell was assigned the chair held by the late Justice Black, and Justice Rehnquist got Justice Harlan's chair. The court now has its full membership of nine justices.

The famous Occidental Restaurant has now gone the way of the Old Willard Hotel. A thousand signed photographs of Washington's famous were auctioned off as well as table candle lamps, kitchen utensils and other furnishings. This closing adds to the dearth of good places to eat in the downtown area.

Black Lawyer Supports Muskie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic Sen. Edmund Muskie has picked up the support of a well-known black lawyer in Florida and is expected to get the endorsements of three Senate colleagues in his campaign for the presidency.

The endorsement by Alcee Hastings, who ran for the U.S. Senate in Florida in 1970, fits into Muskie's strategy of getting "big name" endorsements to help win the March 14 Florida primary election.

Hastings, a Fort Lauderdale attorney, said Friday in Tallahassee that Muskie is the "best of the field." Other endorsements by state political leaders are expected to be timed to help Muskie's Florida effort.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Democratic Sens. Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, Mike Gravel of Alaska and Lee Metcalf of Montana announced they would hold a joint news conference Monday on the 1972 presidential nomination.

Sources confirmed they would back Muskie. Their support would bring to 10 the number of senators supporting the Maine Democrat.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, the Republican-turned-Democrat, gained the backing of Mayor Charles Evers, of Fayette, Miss., brother of the slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

Evers said he would support Lindsay's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination because he "walked down those dusty roads" during Evers' unsuccessful Mississippi gubernatorial campaign last year.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., campaigning in Madison, Wis., with his eye on the state's April 4 primary, called for U.S. recognition of Bangladesh and a meeting between U.S. and Bangladesh officials to discuss aid.

Earlier, Sens. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, a fellow Democratic presidential aspirant, and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts had urged recognition of Bangladesh.

And Muskie, winding up a two-day campaign in New Hampshire for the state's March 7 primary, said he would like to see Indian troops withdrawn from Bangladesh before formal U.S. recognition, but the withdrawal should not be a precondition.

Democratic leaders and candidates were still reacting to Alabama Gov. George Wallace's entry in the March 14 Florida primary as a Democrat. Wallace has said he will open his formal campaign for the Florida contest Jan. 24.

Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, who has called himself the only presidential hope for luring disenchanted Democrats back into the fold, said in Milwaukee Wallace's entry in the Florida race is a threat to all other Democrats in the contest.

Democratic party national Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien had said Wallace isn't serious about winning the Democratic nomination and would make a shambles of the nominating process by entering Democratic primaries.

However, Rep. Bob Sikes, D-Fla., said he is glad to see Wallace return to Democratic ranks, although he added he is continuing to support Jackson for president.

An Equal Number

FTC Lists Major Complaints

By PETER WEAVER

Maybe you sent away for a Christmas gift and it was never delivered. Or maybe you sent some product back because it wasn't right and — no refund.

The Federal Trade Commission says dissatisfaction with mail-order nondelivery and fudging on refunds ranks number one in volume of complaints.

To cut these mail-order complaints down to size, the FTC, in hearings this month, is asking companies to show cause why all their customers' orders shouldn't be shipped out within 21 days. The FTC wants to make it a rule that failure to deliver the goods (or refund) on time would subject a mail-order company to a federal lawsuit.

If the rule goes through, and it looks like something close to it will go through, the Post Office feels it will have an additional weapon to punish repeat mail-order offenders. The Post Office can stop mail to a company that misrepresents its service (in this case, not shipping within 21 days).

Coinciding with the FTC's action is the completion of a four-month study of the mail-order business ordered by Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal (D-N.Y.). The Rosenthal study suggests that mail-order companies should also be licensed and bonded to protect customers who do not get what they pay for.

Reputable mail-order companies generally support the FTC's proposed rule and are taking action on their own. The Direct Mail Advertising Assn. (1,600 members) is going to bat for mail-order complainers.

If you have a complaint, send it to: Direct Mail Advertising Assn.; 230 Park Ave.; New York, N.Y. The association has a good problem-solving record.

Before sending money away for a product or service, check with your Better Business Bureau which usually has a good file on mail-order complaints. I checked the mail-order complaint file of the Council of Better Business Bureaus and came up with this sampler:

DEFA ELECTRONICS. "Complaints have alleged nonfulfillment of orders, changes in prices agreed to in estimates, substitution of merchandise and failure to make refunds."

UNITY BUYING SERVICE. The report cites a restraining order issued by the state of New York against the company to stop "misleading the public through the use of allegedly false representations and statements" on the fulfillment of customer orders. The report also states that "complaints we have brought to (Unity's) attention have been adjusted."

ALASKA SEELPING BAG. "In recent months Alaska Sleeping Bag Co. has experienced supply and procedural difficulties which have resulted in consumer complaints of dealys in shipment and in processing merchandise refunds." The report also says "progress is being made" in correcting computer problems.

COLONIAL STUDIOS. "Such complaints as we have received involving delays in receiving merchandise ordered, refunds and proper crediting of accounts... have been adjusted when brought to the attention of the management."

B&G DEPOT. Also known as World Art. "Our chief problem has been in fulfillment... (the company) has never had sufficient personnel and trained organization to eliminate the causes of complaint."

INFORMATION, INC. This company is reported to be operating under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act and is attempting to pay back its unsatisfied customers on a monthly basis.

ALEXANDER SALES. This company is also operating under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Act, but, unlike Information, Inc., the court is not permitting refunds to dissatisfied customers who made purchases before Feb. 4.

Sometimes 10s and nines turn out to be a liability. South does well to arrive at five diamonds. He has to lose two spades and eventually must decide which way to finesse for the queen of hearts.

Make the 10 and nine of hearts little ones and South will have to play West for the queen and will make his contract.

When we saw this hand played we watched a rather good player go down two tricks as the result of some nice deception by West. This deception was made possible because South had no idea that West knew anything about card play. Otherwise the deception might have told South exactly where the queen of hearts was.

West opened the king of spades and continued with the jack to his partner's ace. East led a third spade and West dropped the four spot.

South ran off the rest of his trumps and all the clubs with no apparent thought. West discarded with equally apparent lack of interest in the proceedings. West's first discard was the 10 of spades; his second, the four of hearts. East's first discard was the club three; his second, the three of hearts.

South knew that West was hanging on to the queen of spades. Could this be guile or was it just careless discarding by a man with no interest in the heart suit.

South decided it was the latter. He led a heart to dummy's king and finessed against East on the next play.

SFCC's 'Greatest Effort' Topples Raiders

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Start with a full-court, man-to-man press for an appetizer, throw in a half-court diamond press for a main dish and top it off with a seven-minute delay game.

It all adds up to a fine meal, and one that State Fair Community College basketball coach Bill Barton won't forget for a long time.

The Roadrunners attacked Three Rivers Junior College's press in orderly fashion, while riding their torrid 63 per cent shooting from the field and blasted the Raiders, 88-68, Friday night in what Barton termed, "my greatest win as a college coach."

"This win almost is as great as some of the victories my old Skyline High School teams won in state tournament play."

Although they turned the ball over 13 times in the game, in Barton's words, "that's really not too bad, when you take into consideration their tough press."

The Roadrunners jumped out to a quick lead and never gave it up as they evened their season's mark at 8-8, the first time State Fair has been at the .500 mark this season since Nov. 27.

SFCC simply looked unbeatable as they put together their strongest effort of the season and what may rank as the best game by a Roadrunner team in the school's brief, four-year history.

Three main keys aided State Fair in the victory.

1. Their consistent attack for the Raiders' press; 2. their hot 63 per cent shooting; 3. the fine play turned in by Clarence Hampton.

The Roadrunners riddled the Raiders' press, which has been one of Three Rivers' strong suits. Their press helped carry them to a fourth-place finish in the national junior college tournament last season.

With sophomore Kevin Arand at the quarterback position in the back court, State Fair carefully moved the ball across the mid-court stripe against Three Rivers' press.

Once across the line, State Fair simply looked for the open man inside. There they found at different times Clarence Hampton, Myles Yates or Jimmy Lassiter.

When State Fair was not able to work the ball inside, they went to sharp-shooter Duane Kraettli.

Three Rivers opened with full-court, man-to-man pressure, but later switched to the half-court diamond. Neither was too effective against the Roadrunners' deliberate attack.

With just over three minutes to play in the first half State Fair had mounted their biggest lead of the game, 49-30.

Three Rivers, who was forced to shoot outside almost all night, came right back with a bucket by Ron Johnson.

But State Fair was not to be denied and they worked the ball back up court and found Lassiter open underneath, who again gave the Roadrunners a 19-point margin 51-32.

Outplayed in the first 20 minutes of action, the Raiders walked dejectedly into the dressing room at the half trailing, 51-36.

In the opening half, balanced scoring and standout board work found four of the Roadrunners already in double figures. Clarence Hampton, who had to sit out the last two minutes of the half with three fouls, led with 14; Lassiter and Yates were in hot persuit with 12 each, while Kraettli had added 10.

Everyone wondered as the second half opened if SFCC could keep up their torrid pace.

They did, but not without some anxious moments midway through the second stanza.

But, what may have been the turning point in the game came 15 seconds later when Yates rammed home a three-point play and put SFCC ahead 67-57.

Johnson pulled the Raiders to within seven again, 68-61, with 7:59 showing on the clock on a 15-footer, but some clutch free throw shooting by Jerry Diekmann, Kraettli and Arand salted the game away.

Diekman came in for Hampton with just over 12 minutes to play, when Hampton picked up his fourth personal foul.

Up by nine, 72-63, with almost seven minutes to play, Barton called for his delay game.

The Roadrunners responded and took only the open shot underneath. Even this worked as they spread Three Rivers' defense and fed Yates, Kraettli and Lassiter inside.

The capper came with 2:59 remaining, when Arand spotted Yates open underneath. Yates scored on the pin-point pass and drew a foul. He caged the shot from the charity stripe putting State Fair on top 83-66.

Everyone got a taste of the victory as Barton cleared the bench.

Only one Roadrunner starter failed to get into double figures, Kevin Arand, who checked in with nine. However, the calmness with which he and Kraettli worked against the press drew praise from Barton after the game.

Yates was the top SFCC scorer with 22; Lassiter followed with 18, Hampton added 17, while Kraettli was only one back of that with 16.

Hampton, whose play had been inconsistent in recent games, was one of the important cogs in the Roadrunners' victory wheel. He had a standout first half in scoring 14 points and picking off seven rebounds.

Lassiter was the top rebounder for State Fair with 12.

Larry Lawrence added 14, while Joe Pace was the only other Raider to reach double figures with 12.

"We knew that we had to play good defense, break their press and work the ball inside. That's what won the game for us. It was an entire team effort, and most certainly the best we have had all year," said Barton after the game.

Although State Fair won by 20 points to a team that had seen three of their four previous losses at the hands of nationally-ranked squads the Roadrunners were scheduled to face another stiff test Saturday night when they entertained Jefferson College of Hillsboro, Mo.

"We can't let down just because we whipped 'em badly by 20 points," said Lassiter in the dressing room, "we've got to be as ready for Saturday's game as we were tonight."

S-C's Rough Road Times Continue In 51-45 Loss

(Democrat-Capital Service)

Part of the game of basketball is being able to play adequately on the road, and when you don't your mistakes can come back to haunt you.

Smith-Cotton dropped their seventh game of the season Friday night to Raytown, 51-45, and it was a road game. It was the Tigers' sixth road loss of the season in nine outings.

"Mistakes killed us," moaned Jim Dinsdale, the S-C Tigers' cage mentor Saturday morning.

"We turned the ball over 27 times in the game, and when you blow that many scoring chances, you're going to suffer the consequences," he added.

The Bengals connected on a better percentage from the field in the loss than did Raytown, 41 per cent to 37 per cent, but the turnovers were the determining factor in the game. At least they were in Dinsdale's estimation.

"We had a chance to gain a solid hand in the first half, but we just couldn't keep ahold of the ball because of our own mistakes," said Dinsdale.

S-C moved out to a 14-12 lead at the close of the first period and were leading by five, 27-22, at the half.

But the Bengals were only able to solve the Blue Jays' defense for 18 points in the entire second half.

The Tigers lost two of their starters on fouls in the fourth period. Forward Bob Fingland took a seat on the bench midway through the stanza with five personals, while 6'7" Kim Anderson was lost via the same route with just under three minutes to play.

Anderson had collected 15 points and 12 rebounds when he fouled out of the game. His 15 was tops in the contest for either side.

"We defensed (Randy) Dix real well holding him to 10 points, but when you keep making so many mistakes, it's pretty hard to win," Dinsdale added.

Dix, the Blue Jays' 6'6" senior pivot man, who had been averaging over 20 points per game, connected on only four field goals.

Doug Maple was the only other Tiger in double figures; he tossed in 11.

For Raytown, John McDowell and Bob Brown entered double figures with Dix. McDowell was the top Blue Jays' top scorer with 14, while Brown added 10.

Steve Herzberg, who has not shown the scoring punch as he did his sophomore and junior years, drew praise from Dinsdale with his job on the boards. Herzberg had another standout defensive game and hauled in 14 rebounds.

Dinsdale was regrouping his players Saturday for their Saturday night encounter with Hannibal in what Dinsdale termed as "our most important game to date in the Central Missouri Conference race."

Grems Down Cats In Key Loop Game

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — Sacred Heart successfully got over one of their biggest hurdles of the Kaysinger Conference season Friday night when they posted a 62-53 victory over Warsaw, here.

The win kept the Grems league record unblemished in four outings and moved their overall mark to 14-3.

Warsaw, who took a 3-1 league mark into the game, slipped to 3-2 and is two games off the pace of the league-leading Gremlins. LaMonte and Stover are also undefeated in conference play at 3-0 each.

"I've got to give a lot of credit for our victory to Bill Freund, who did an outstanding job against Eddie Barnes," said Gremlins' mentor Tom Beer late Friday night.

"He held him (Barnes) to only 10 points ... we knew that we would have to keep him down if we were going to get the win," he added happily.

Beer used only six players in the game. The five starters accounted for all the Sacred Heart scoring, while Keith Fischer took over for guard Dan Borchers, when Borchers picked up his fourth foul.

Freund, in addition to holding the high-scoring Barnes to 10 points, was the game's leading scorer with 17; Steve Karigan gave the Gremlins 16 more, while brother Jeff Karigan tossed in 14.

Warsaw was able to get the ball inside at times to 6'6" junior center Doug Stevens, who led the Wildcats' in the scoring department with 16. Bob Miller joined Stevens and Barnes in double digures with 10.

Sacred Heart jumped out to a 19-12 lead as the first period ended and retained their seven-point edge at the intermission at 38-31.

The Gremlins increased their lead by one as the teams entered the final quarter, 51-43. But the Wildcats were not about to fold.

They chopped Sacred Heart's lead down to only two points with three minutes to play after being down by as much as 10 points early in the fourth period.

But the Grems' press, coupled with a cold Wildcat shooting spell in the final three minutes, gave Sacred Heart the key conference victory.

Sacred Heart still has two important league games on the road. The first of which comes Jan. 25 in Stover and the other will be Feb. 11, when they take on the LaMonte Vikings.

Sacred Heart also won the junior varsity contest, 34-29; Tony Lock had 16 points for Sacred Heart, while Tim Hedrick topped Warsaw with eight.

Scoring

Sacred Heart (62) — Freund 17, S. Karigan 16, J. Karigan 14, Straka 8, Borchers 7.

Warsaw (53) — Stevens 16, Miller 10, Barnes 10, Whitaker 8, Mills 6, Kinkead 2, Barb 1.

Bulldogs In Finals

(Democrat-Capital Service)

STOVER — Host Stover grabbed an 80-61 semifinal victory over Northwest of Hughesville Friday night, and was scheduled to take on top-seeded Tuscumbia in the Stover Invitational Tournament's championship game in Saturday's finals.

The Bulldogs went inside for most of their points; front liners Phillip Marriott and Dwight Palmer checked in with 29 and 21 points respectively in leading Stover to the win.

Noel Heppard, who played one of his best varsity games ever, added 15, while Steve Fischer had 10.

"This was an extra fine game," said Stover coach Dean Ringen following the contest, "it was one of our better performances of the season."

In that game, Lincoln couldn't find the range in the first and third quarters, when they netted only six and nine points respectively.

Northwest, who will be without the services of the Kaysinger Conference's leading rebounder Tim Kessler for the rest of the season with a severly pulled leg muscle, saw Shawn Barnes, Don Mackesty and Tom Houchens reach double figures. Barnes led with 20, while Mackesty added 13 and Houchens 12.

Ed Pickens was tops for Lincoln with 17; David Andes also reached double figures with 10.

Scoring

LaMonte Mark Swells to 13-2

(Democrat-Capital Service)

LAMONTE — LaMonte raced to a 27-13 lead in the first quarter Friday night against Bunceton and ran off with an 85-58 non-conference victory.

Bunceton was able to keep pace with the Vikings in the next two periods. Both teams checked in with 18 points in the second period, while both netted 14 each in the third quarter.

LaMonte doubled the Dragons output in the fourth quarter, however, 26-13.

It was the 12th victory of the season for LaMonte, whose overall mark swelled to 13-2.

Glyn "Buggar" Bennett, the Vikings' swift sophomore, was the game's leading scorer with 28 points; teammates Lee Keen and Ben Walden added 18 and 12 in that order.

LaMonte also won the junior varsity game, 51-30.

LaMonte's next action will be Friday, when they face Kaysinger Conference foe Smithton on the road. That game will pit LaMonte coach Larry Pummill against brother Terry.

Scoring

LaMonte (85) — Bennett 28, Keen 18, Walden 12, Oswald, 9, Bruce 6, Ripley 5, Kettle 4, Hudson 3.

Miami, Dallas Meet in Super Bowl VI

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two new breed quarterbacks—Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins and Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys—will be battling in a play within a play when Super Bowl VI is staged Sunday for pro football's biggest prizes.

The prizes—$15,000 and the sterling silver Vince Lombardi Trophy—will belong to every member of the winning team. But the spotlight in Super Bowls past has almost invariably encircled the quarterbacks.

The stars of this show—to be nationally televised by CBS starting at 2:30 p.m., EST—figure to be Griese and Staubach, two young quarterbacks of the pass-if-you-can, but run-if-you-can't mold that seems to be denting the drop-back passer school of thinking.

But while Griese and Staubach are statistically alike as new breed quarterbacks who can run for yardage as well as gain it through the air they are different in their willingness to accept the label "scrambler."

"The term scrambler," Staubach said as he prepared for Sunday's clash, "takes away—using it means people will think of me as a runner rather than a thrower. I'd rather be known as a passer. I think I'm a sporadic runner."

Griese, on the other hand, doesn't find the label offensive.

"I don't care what they call me," he explained. "My philosophy is to set up and throw if I have time. But if the protection breaks down, rather than fall down, the quarterback who has the ability to run has an advantage. I'm a pocket passer. But running is an additional weapon."

Griese, a 6-foot-1, 190 pound product of Purdue now in his fifth season, was the No. 1 passer in the American Conference this year. He completed 55.1 per cent of his passes for 2,089 yards and 19 touchdowns with a 3.4 interception percentage.

Staubach is a 6-foot-3, 197-pound product of the Naval Academy who is only in his third pro season after four years of military service. Nevertheless, he was the No. 1 passer in the National Conference this year with a 59.7 completion percentage, 1,882 yards gained, 15 touchdowns and a 1.9 interception mark.

Staubach also gained 343 yards and scored twice while running with the ball 41 times while Griese picked up 82 yards in 26 carries, although he did not score.

But this Super Bowl has more than new breed quarterbacks. It also has two teams driven by emotional missions—the Cowboys to wipe out the last effects of a "can't-win-the-big-ones" tag and the Dolphins to help Coach Don Shula erase the memory of a Super Bowl III loss to the New York Jets when he was coaching Baltimore.

The Cowboys, who since 1966 have fallen either one or two victories short of winning either the National Football League championship or the Super Bowl, no longer worry about what the football world labels them. But they are aware.

"Up until last year we did have a kind of complex," Coach Tom Landry acknowledged. "But that changed when we won the National Conference championship. So we have shown no emotions in the playoffs this year—just a quiet determination.

The Cowboys were favored, last year, but lost to Baltimore 16-13, the third straight victory by an AFC team for a 3-2 lead in the Super Bowl series.

"We remember it," said cornerback Mel Renfro, "and we don't want it to happen again. We know what it means."

What it means is a winter of derision from the fans—the same kind of derision Shula faced when his Colts were upset by the Jets in Super Bowl III.

"Don was criticized for the carnival atmosphere in camp before that game," Miami middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti pointed out. "He's had a more protective attitude toward the players this time.

"Don's never forgotten the Super Bowl against the Jets."

Shula is the miracle-worker who took the Dolphins, a 3-10-1 club in 1969, and in two seasons built them into a winner, the club having arrived here after a 27-24 sudden death overtime playoff victory over Kansas City and a 21-0 triumph over Baltimore in the AFC championship.

The major weapons offensively have been Griese; running backs Larry Csonka, a 1,000-yard ground gainer, and Jim Kiick; wide receiver Paul Warfield, and placekicker Garo Yepremian.

Warfield, who has been one of the centers of attraction ever since President Nixon suggested Shula have Griese throw him a down-and-in pass, caught 43 passes for 996 yards and an NFL-leading 11 touchdowns during the regular season.

The Miami defense, led by Buoniconti, has been somewhat overlooked by the general public during the season, but played as large a part in Miami's 10-3-1 regular season record as the offense.

The Dolphins' defensive unit ranked second to Baltimore in the AFC. The Cowboys' more glamorous unit—nicknamed the Doomsday Defense—finished second in the NFC to Minnesota, but allowed less yardage per game than Miami.

They also gained more yardage per game, 359.6 to 315.1, than Miami, as Staubach used Duane Thomas and Calvin Hill on the run and fired passes to Bob Hayes, Lance Alworth and his two tight ends, Bill Truax and Mike Ditka.

Thomas, the controversial running back who refuses to talk, was the club's leading ground gainer with 793 yards and 11 touchdowns. Hill, who suffered a ligament pull in the NFC championship game, gained 468 yards and scored eight times.

Hill came along slowly in early-week workouts but was expected to be available, although Landry has an adequate back-up in rugged Walt Garrison. But the key to the Cowboy's final 11-3 record, a 20-12 playoff victory over Minnesota and a 14-3 champion title game triumph over San Francisco was Staubach, who took over at mid-season and has steered the club to nine consecutive victories.

That string will be on the line Sunday as well as the Dolphin's shutout string of 82 minutes and 40 seconds running back into the fifth and sixth periods of their victory over Kansas City in pro football's longest game.

Sudden death also will be in effect for Sunday's climax to the 1971 season. If the game is tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes the game will continue in overtime with the winner the first team scoring by safety, field goal or touchdown.

Frazier Defends Crown With Ease

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joe Frazier knocked down Terry Daniels five times Saturday night and retained his world heavyweight championship when the fight was stopped in the fourth round with Daniels dropped over the lower strand of the ropes.

Frazier, fighting for the first time since he outpointed Muhammad Ali last March 8, simply had too much power for Daniels, loser of three of his 10 fights last year.

The champion dropped Daniels for the fourth time at about the minute mark of the fourth round with a left hook high on the head, followed by a short right. Daniels got up at a nine count and Frazier moved in and drove him about the ring.

A barrage of punches dropped Daniels again and he almost fell through the ropes. The referee then stopped the fight.

There never really was any doubt to the outcome as the unbeaten Frazier, who weighed the heaviest of his career at 215½ to 191½ for Daniels, put on tremendous pressure right from the opening bell.

Frazier dropped Daniels with a left hook in the first round and the count continued after the bell. The Dallas fighter, who needs six hours of credit for his college degree, got up at eight. The referee, not hearing the bell, waved the fighters into action but ringsiders called his attention to the fact the round was over.

Daniels stayed on his feet through the second round and drew cheers from a crowd of about 9,000 at Rivergate Auditorium. The fight also was the first heavyweight title bout on home television since Ali knocked out Zora Folley March 22, 1967.

The 28-year-old Frazier put Daniels on the deck twice more in the third round, the first time with a right following a hook and the second time with a hook. Daniels got up at nine both times.

BULLETIN

Shooting a blistering 57½ per cent for game, the Tigers put five men in double figures. Star center Kim Anderson netted 27, Jim Sanders picked up 16 coming off the bench, Don Tatman and Doug Maple had 15 apiece and Jim Fingland tallied for 10. It was S-C's best offensive performance of the season.

Good defense and a fast-break offense were the keys for S-C, according to Coach Jim Dinsdale, as the Tigers extended their conference record to 3-1 while Hannibal's dropped to 2-1.

Sooners Upset Mizzou, 78-77

NORMAN, Okla (AP)—The Oklaoma Sooners saw an eight-point lead evaporate in the last minute and a half, but held on to upset 11th ranked Missouri 78-77 here Saturday night.

OU was leading 74-66 when Missouri struck for seven unanswered points to cut the Sooner margin to one. The two teams traded two buckets and the Sooners had record their second conference victory of the season.

Scoring honors for the night, though, went to Missouri center John Brown who had 26.

OU's biggest lead was three points and the score was tied three times in the close-fought game.

KNOB NOSTER — Warrensburg College High defended its first-seeded position here Saturday night in the Knob Noster Invitational, downing the host Panthers, 53-34, for the tourney championship.

Although the Colts led by only two at the half, a third-quarter defensive effort limited the Panthers to only two points, while College High netted 13.

Santa Fe picked up third in the tournament by defeating Holden, 76-63.

KNOB NOSTER — Second-seeded and host Knob Noster moved into Saturday night's championship game of the annual Knob Noster Invitational Basketball Tournament with Friday night's 64-41 win over Holden.

Holden had gained a championship semifinal berth with their upset win over third-seeded St. Paul's of Concordia earlier in the opening round.

However, Knob Noster's pressure defense held Holden's high-scoring Gary Pirch to only 11 points. Pirch has been averaging well above 20 points for the season.

Warrensburg captured the tourney's consolation trophy with a 66-54 victory over St. Paul's. Warrensburg rode their balanced scoring and second-half defense.

Saturday's tournament games were scheduled to find Knob Noster meeting top-seeded Warrensburg College High for the championship; Santa Fe and Holden tangled for third-place honors.

Scoring

Jays Upset Kewps

(Democrat-Capital Service)

JEFFERSON CITY — The Jefferson City Jays are notoriously tough on their home court, especially at special events.

The Capital City Tournament is a special event and the Jays lived up to their notorious nature and upset second-seeded Columbia in a championship semifinal game during Friday night's action, 46-41.

Although coach Jim McLeod's Columbians suffered only their second loss of the season and the first one since Nov. 26, Fulton coach Randy Eddy won the dubious honor of pulling the biggest boner of the night.

With Fulton leading by 20 points in the fourth quarter over Moberly in the tournament's consolation game, Eddy pulled the starters and ran in the subs.

Before Eddy could stop what was happening, Moberly had pulled to within six points. He quickly reinserted his starters, but they couldn't find the range and the Spartans grabbed off a 79-78 win and the consolation prize.

The Jays and Kewpies, as expected, toughened up their defenses. Columbia held the Jays to only five points in the opening period, but could only muster nine on their side of the ledger.

The half found the Jays within one, 17-16.

Mike Hopkins and Rick Elliott took over for Jefferson City in the second half and pulled the Jays into the championship game. Jefferson City was scheduled to meet tourney favorite Springfield Glendale in Saturday night's championship tilt.

Hopkins was the leading scorer in the contest, tossing in 21 for the Jays; Elliott, who was held to three points in the opening half, added 13 in the third and fourth quarters and also reached double figures with 16. Jon Anderson was top scorer for the Kewpies with 17.

Moberly had five players in double figures, lead by Robin Lewis' 17 and Darryl Lucas' 16. Grant Spurling, Kevin Kehoe and David Hudson checked in with 10 each.

Tony Galbreath topped the scoring for Fulton with 20, Kevin Flynn had 15, Bob Gould added 11, while Tom Richmond and Percy McBride had 10 each.

In addition to the Jefferson City, Springfield Glendale championship game Saturday night, Columbia and Central Missouri Conference foe Mexico were scheduled to meet in the third-place contest.

Scoring

1-On-1 Tourney Snagged

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association's One-On-One Tournament, scheduled to start Monday, has run into trouble. The pre-tournament, intra-club competition has triggered disputes, and a number of the league's top players will not participate.

At stake is $50,500 in prize money, including $15,000 for the champion. Yet, there has been disinterest among the players.

Among those who will play in Tuesday night's NBA All-Star game at Los Angeles but will not participate in the man against man tournament include Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West of Los Angeles, Spencer Haywood of Seattle, John Havlicek and Dave Cowens of Boston, Elvin Hayes of Houston, Walt Frazier and Dave DeBusschere of New York, Wes Unseld and Archie Clark of Baltimore, Lou Hudson of Atlanta, Sidney Wicks of Portland and Tom Van Arsdale of Cincinnati.

Fiene Twins Guide Local Lutheran Team

Pat and Peter Fiene combined for 40 points Friday night as St. Paul's Elementary School of Sedalia notched a 56-26 win over Stover St. Paul's.

In the junior varsity basketball game, Todd Lentz scored 23 of St. Paul's 26 points and guided the locals to a 26-17 win.

Stover St. Paul's (26) — Fischer 8, K. Dale 7, T. Dale 6, Wite 3, Brandt 2.

BULLETIN

JEFFERSON CITY — The magic of the home court was strongly in evidence here Saturday night as the Jays hustled and just plain outplayed first-seeded Springfield Glendale to become the Capital City Tournament champions on a 63-53 win.

Johnny Miller Vaults Past Nicklaus, Jacklin

PEBBLE BEACH, calif. (AP) — Young Johnny Miller vaulted past some of the game's greatest players Saturday firing a five-under par 67 for the third-round lead in the $140,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

The skinny, blond 24-year old had a 54-hole total of 210, one stroke better than Jack Nicklaus and England's Tony Jacklin.

Trevino was tied at that figure with 32-year-old Virginian Herb Hooper. Hooper, seeking his first victory in four years on the tour, matched par 72.

Miller, who scored his first tour victory in the Southern Open and was a tough par on the first hole.

"I missed the green to the left and from there you've just got no shot," he explained. "I made a perfect-well, almost perfect-chip to about six feet and made the putt for a par.

"I said I've got it going now."

He did. Miller ran in 12-foot birdie putts on the next two holes, got a par on the fourth and scored a deuce from 20 feet on the fifth.

"I think that's the seventh consecutive time in competition that I've made birdie on that hole," said Miller, who won the California Amateur championship on the same course several years ago.

He birdied the ninth from 15 feet, then went in front alone when he punched a short iron to within five feet and sank the putt on the 11th.

Miller stroked a three iron to within three feet of the hole for his sixth birdie of the day on the 12th, but bogeyed the 13th when he missed the green. He then parred in.

"I feel I actually lost a couple of shots on the way in," he said. "I wasn't concerned about a 67. I just wanted to get as far in front as I could."

Warsaw Lions Club Tourney Pairings Set

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — The first-round games for the Warsaw Lions Club Independent Basketball Tournament have been announced. The 12-team tournament is scheduled to get underway Jan. 31.

Games on that date include Colonial Tap Room (Jefferson City) meeting Climax Springs at 7:30 p.m.; Warsaw tangles with Stover at 9 p.m.

Feb. 1, LaMonte and College Masters (Warrensburg) battle at 7:30 p.m., while the Sedalia Jaycees take on Buffalo at 9 p.m.

Bengals Blitz Savior, 5-0

Smith-Cotton moved its soccer record a step closer to the .500 mark Saturday by blitzing visiting Savior of Bonner Springs, 5-0.

Competing against their opponents plus the numbing effects of near-zero temperatures, the Bengals made an effort to keep warm by dominating the entire game.

Donnie Smith pumped his first tally into the nets in the eighth minute of play on an assist by Roger Reid. About two minutes later, Mike Wingerter set up a scoring situation for Steve Fisher, who made it 2-0 for the Tigers. Joe Isgriggs gave the locals their third score of the first half with the help of David Hausam.

The second half saw another shot by Smith go all the way on an assist by David Wingerter. The final score of the contest went to Mike Wingerter on the set-up by Tim Twenter.

Ciersdorff had high praise for his squad.

"These young men are something else; they always give you 100 per cent regardless of who the competition is or what the field or weather is like," he commented following the game. Junior varsity coach Ted Brown also had compliments for the team, noting they worked together well in the contest.

Jayhawks Romp Over Cowboys

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas opened defense of its Big Eight Conference basketball title with an 85-58 romp past Oklahoma State Saturday night.

Kansas snapped a five-game losing streak by running its record to 4-8 for the season.

Oklahoma State has now lost five in a row and is 2-12 on the year. The Cowboys kept it close through the first half, and Kansas led only 33-28 at intermission.

Over $1,400 Netted During Benefit Show

Wrestling officials of Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, reported Saturday that receipts collected on Tuesday night's annual Crippled Childrens' Benefit Wrestling match, totaled as one of the highest figures ever achieved at the event. A sum, in excess of $1,400 was realized.

The local legion post noted pride in the accomplishment and would like to take this opportunity to thank the wrestlers, legionnaires, promoter Gust Karras, workers and helpers connected with the special event for making it such a tremendous success.

American Legion, Post No. 16, spokesmen said that the money will be turned over to the Children's Therapy Center in the near future.

Nebraska Tops Colorado, 67-55

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Chuck Jura went over the 1,000-point career scoring mark Saturday as his Nebraska basketball team defeated Colorado 67-55 to remain undefeated in Big Eight play with three league victories.

Jura, shut out in the first half, scored 11 after the intermission while Nebraska was breaking away from the stubborn Buffaloes.

Greer Elected To R-G Board

Members of the Rod and Gun Club re-elected two board members and chose Harold Greer, 1818 South Grand, to serve his first term on the organization's board at the club's annual stockholder's meeting Tuesday.

Re-elected to the board were Richard C. Cole, 627 East 27th, and James R. Hamilton, 2723 South Kentucky.

BULLETIN

State Fair Community College turned the tables on Jefferson College of Hillsboro Saturday night and lifted its season's record above .500 by winning at home 64-63.

Jefferson beat the Roadrunners 68-67 on Dec. 11 at Hillsboro.

Only two SFCC players reached double figures in last night's game; Myles Yates had 14 while Clarence Hampton picked up 10. Jim Moten led all scorers for Jefferson with 15.

S-C Frosh Will Meet Lincoln in Tournament

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WINDSOR — The Smith-Cotton freshman B team has been seeded fourth in this week's Windsor Junior High School Basketball Tournament, and will meet Lincoln in their first contest, Wednesday at 6:15 p.m.

College High of Warrensburg is seeded first, while Knob Noster and Clinton round out the top four seeded teams.

College High will meet Cole Camp in the opening game Monday at 6:15 p.m.; Knob Noster and Warsaw tangle at 7:30 p.m.

Monday's final first-round contest pits Clinton against host Windsor at 8:45 p.m.

Tournament play will break Tuesday and Friday, but games are scheduled Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The finals will be played Saturday, with the consolation contest scheduled for 6:15 p.m., the third-place game will be played at 7:30 p.m. and the championship contest is scheduled for 8:45 p.m.

Bill Walton Keys Bruins' Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Walton's 20 points and tight defense led the top-ranked UCLA Bruins to an easy 82-43 Pacific-8 Conference victory over California Saturday.

The 6-foot-11 sophomore center dominated the backboards, blocked shots and got scoring support from forwards Keith Wilkes and Larry Farmer, who added 15 and 13 points. It was the 27th straight victory for the Bruins, who are 12-0 this season, and their fouth conference win.

Bill Duwe led California scorers with 11 points and John Coughran had 10. Ansley Truitt, the Bears' 6-9 center, got in early foul trouble guarding Walton and picked up his fifth foul early in the second half after scoring only two two points.

The Bears kept the pace slow early in the game, waiting for good shots, but only Duwe could hit consistently. The Bruins had a 14-1 streak late in the first half, then held Cal to four points the first eight minutes of the second half to build a 59-27 lead.

Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion will meet on Monday, January 17th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall, 16th & Thompson Blvd. All members are urged to attend this important meeting. Please come and help us plan our annual ham and bean dinner. Refreshments following the meeting.

Consumerism

We Invented It

Not the word . . . but the idea of consumers working together for a better way. There was a time when local insurance needs weren't being served because rates were high and claim service was lacking.

The solution didn't come from government or outsiders. Local people formed their own Farm Mutual Insurance Associations. They did the job that had to be done because they knew the needs of the people. They still do.

People Come First! A great idea and it works!

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR WALTER LIPPMANN

Some months ago, Dean Acheson was quoted as saying that he felt John F. Kennedy was in over his head as President—that he didn't have the background to handle the major problems of the office. Do you agree?—D. N., Durham, N. C.

● I didn't agree with almost anything that Dean Acheson said, but his recent estimate of Kennedy as a President I think is correct. Kennedy was out of his depth. The result is that we had that very dangerously inflated Inaugural speech, and then we had the Bay of Pigs and a lot of other things, and the mess he made during his meeting with Khrushchev in Vienna. Only in the last few months of his life did he begin to see things more or less in their true proportion.

FOR MIKE CONNORS, TV's "Mannix"

You used to be poor, now you're rich. What do you consider to be the best part of wealth?—Mrs. Anna Dillon, Annandale, Va.

● As you get older, you learn that your wants are less material. The best part of wealth is independence. You can do what you want to do when you want to do it. That's what most actors want, not yachts and big cars.

FOR MIKE GRAVEL, Senator from Alaska

Some critics have said that you are reveling in the new fame you have acquired since you read the Pentagon papers into the "Congressional Record." Would you comment?—Roger Lawson, Little Rock, Ark.

● I admit it. I thrive on public exposure and hard work and traveling. My feeling is that the more I become nationally known, the more they will have to listen to me in the Senate and the more I can chip away, bit by bit, for what I want.

FOR ETHEL WATERS, singer

Does the cross ring I saw you wearing on the Billy Graham TV Crusade have special significance?—Mrs. Francis Banks, Rockland, Mass.

● The ring is both of great sentiment and great value. It was a love gift from my darling friend and great artist, Julie Harris. She gave it to me in the early 1960s as a birthday present. It had been a treasured heirloom in her family for many generations.

FOR PEGGY FLEMING, ice skater

Now that you're married, are you going to give up your career?—Mrs. B. Richards, Los Angeles, Calif.

● If I had to choose, I'd rather be a good housewife. But I can skate with the Ice Follies only five or six months a year, and that's not hard if the time isn't consecutive. Besides, I'm lucky. My husband understands my work.

FOR GARY PLAYER, professional golfer

What is your major criticism of the championship golf courses in the U.S.? Which do you consider to be the best of American courses?—D. Watson, Niagara Falls, Ont.

● The fairways are too wide, and as a result the inaccurate player occasionally does better than he should. I consider the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth to be the best course on the pro tour.

FOR DEAN MARTIN

● The time the crew made a replica of Ken Lane's piano from balsa wood, and I jumped on it and landed in splinters on the floor.

FOR BILL BENTZIN, Director of the Committee for Rejection of Obnoxious Commercials

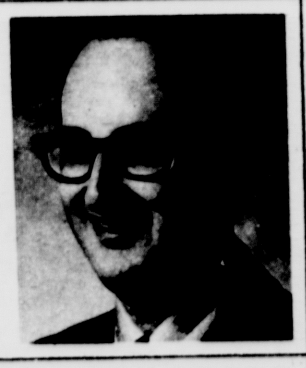
What is the purpose of your group?—John Russell, Bloomington, Ind.



● At the close of the viewing season, CROC members will vote by special ballot for the 10 most obnoxious commercials of the year. "Winning" commercials will receive our ridicule. Many of these commercials say absolutely nothing about the products. Their "creators" admit that the only purpose of these commercials is to burn like acid the product name into our minds. So what if it offends us?

FOR HOWARD PYLE, National Safety Council

What is the national accident rate among the do-it-yourselfers?—Mrs. Clara Lenore Strand, Osnabrock, N. D.

● From 650,000 to 750,000 do-it-yourselfers have disabling accidents every year.

How did the columnist Walter Winchell get so much power? Or didn't he really have the power people think?—Joe Ford, Atlanta, Ga.

Thomas/Winchell

● Winchell was undoubtedly the most powerful journalist of his—or any other—day. He had entrée to the White House. He could bring instant success to Broadway shows, books, performers or bistros. He could sway politics, both national and international. He created the gossip column and a new kind of journalism that was breezy and compelling—if not always accurate. He brought the same excitement to radio. No one will ever have Winchellian power again. Credibility has been assaulted too often.

Don't Let Winter Make You Look Older

Winter can come as a sudden shocking surprise to your skin. You've been reveling in the crisp autumn weather when, quite unexpectedly, chilling winter creeps up on you. And usually your complexion is the first thing to show signs of the harsh new season.

The abrupt drops in temperature, artificial indoor heating, the first wintry winds all seem to conspire to cause your complexion to become dry and older-looking. Before you know it, your skin can lose the warm, moisty glow that has made you look radiant and vitally alive for past months.

Luckily, you can easily protect your complexion from the onslaught of winter weather. Researchers have discovered the secrets of a highly unusual beauty blend, with a unique combination of tropical moisturizing oils that does wonders to combat the ravages of winter. This skin-pampering formulation is known in the United States as Oil of Olay moisturizing fluid, and is used by young-looking, beauty-conscious women all over the world. You will find the precious blend at druggists and beauty counters.

Oil of Olay works in many ways to help your complexion achieve its maximum possible prettiness. Nature's own ingredients in Oil of Olay penetrate the highly-visible surface layer of the skin, helping nature itself maintain the delicate balance of oil and moisture that is essential if your complexion is to remain its freshest and most youthful-looking. Oil of Olay also forms a helpful barrier that retains the skin's own moisture, particularly important at this time of year. After only a few applications, you'll notice an important difference in the look and feel of your complexion.

Most women who truly care for their skin use Oil of Olay moisturizing fluid both morning and evening. It spreads so evenly and penetrates so quickly that it acts as an ideal makeup base. Cosmetics won't ever streak or discolor as the hours pass.

Beauty Hints

Whenever you come in from the chill outdoors, apply a light soothing film of Oil of Olay over your face and throat. Pay extra pampering attention to areas where rough winter clothing rubs and chafes against delicate skin.

* * *

The world notices your elbows more than you do. Keep ahead of winter by massaging Oil of Olay® into your elbows whenever you think of it during the day. They will soon be softer, smoother and far more attractive.

QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

How Well Do You Understand Your Own Sense of Humor?

True or False: If you have a terrific sense of humor, it makes it more difficult to see yourself as you really are (see number 3).

Whether you pride yourself on your sense of humor or not, you'll be glad to know that the experts have come up with some interesting findings about humor, and what makes it tick. Let's have a look at them via this true-false quiz.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. You can tell a lot about a man's personality by the kind of jokes he doesn't like.

2. A joke becomes less and less funny the more we are exposed to it.

3. If you have a terrific sense of humor, it makes it more difficult to see yourself as you really are.

4. If you want to get the most voltage out of your favorite funny story at a party, be sure to tell it first—while your "audience" is fresh.

5. The introvert lacks the extrovert's appreciation for jokes, humor or comedy situations.

6. A sense of humor can't be acquired—it's something you have to be born with.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies show that a person's reaction to various types of jokes reveals a great deal about his character. For example, take the joke about Adam and Eve, who were engaged in naming the various animals of the world, when a hippopotamus hove into view. "What on earth are we going to call that?" Adam wondered. Eve snapped her fingers. "I've got it," she said. "Let's call it a hippopotamus." "Are you serious?" asked Adam. "Why not?" was the reply. "It looks more like a hippopotamus than anything we've named so far."

People who don't find anything humorous in jokes of this sort have been found to be literal-minded, practical, matter-of-fact, unimaginative, realistic and more workaday than fun-loving. Their sense of humor may be well-developed in some areas, but it doesn't extend to the cheerfully ludicrous or the whimsically nonsensical. They may possess more than their share of solid virtues, but you wouldn't invite them to liven up a party.

2. False. This is only true if someone else tells the joke, but not if you tell it. As Stanford University psychiatrist William J. Fry, Jr., observes in his study on humor and what makes it tick, virtually any joke loses much of its humor when you hear it the second time. And when you've heard it the third or fourth time, you've just about had it. On the other hand, as Doctor Fry points out, "You can tell some jokes over and over without experiencing any decrease in the fun of telling them." They seem just as funny to you as they ever did.

3. False. Psychological studies show that people who make the best showings on sense-of-humor tests are the most self-aware, have the most sensitive insight into their innermost feelings and cherish the fewest illusions about themselves. Their sense of humor enables them to face cheerfully the fact that they're far from perfect.

4. False. Humor-reaction studies at the University of Kentucky have demonstrated that no matter how excruciatingly funny your story is, it will get a much better reaction if you'll let someone else tell a story or two first. This serves to get the others in a playfully receptive mood.

5. False. Neither the introvert nor the extrovert has the inside track where appreciation of humor is concerned. But they do have different preferences in humor. The findings of leading studies show that the introvert tends to have a more discriminating sense of humor and prefers wit that is subtle rather than obvious. The extrovert, on the other hand, prefers broader humor, more down-to-earth, with blunter impact—the kind that inspires a belly laugh. He also has a much greater fondness for practical jokes.

6. False. Anyone can cultivate the ability to perceive the comic elements in situations, in people and in himself. It may take some doing, but no effort will pay greater dividends. For a well-developed sense of humor enables us to get along with people better, to adjust more easily to difficult situations and, as one specialist has pointed out, the ability to laugh at oneself is of incalculable value in providing a release from mental and nervous tensions. □

The Death of a Woman: I, a Stranger, Became a Part of It

"There cannot be much putting on of things, I think, when a pair of people in a room both know that one has little time"

By Kate Holliday

● It had only been 10 minutes. But we had heard through the wall between the rooms, trying not to listen, the head of the bed going down. That was final. For she had been raised through it all, in order to breathe. And, when the slight creak, known only to those in a hospital, came to us, we knew that she was gone.

In the dim hall, they who had sat and wondered, waited, suffered with her, died, as she had died, silently. Silently, they walked past our door, with grave faces. Silently, they moved through the pale light, their shoulders slack. They whose blood was hers, by marriage or by birth, went almost in procession, one by one, two by two, without sound. There may have been wildness when they went into the outside dark—hysteria and broken cries. But now, as they passed, there was only silence, marred by the faint brush of footsteps and the knowledge that behind them in a room was . . . nothing.

She was nothing. But she had been much. And even the revolution in her cells, the dark invader, could not destroy her courage.

I had seen that courage in the one night I spent in the bed next to hers, before—for both our sakes—the physicians moved me. And I—who did not know her, who only met her when her breath was coarse and strained and so desperate that every inhalation seemed her last—still knew she was a person to recall.

In agony, she moaned, "Goooooood! . . . Goooooood!" . . . Then, after a breath that barely came, "Let me die! Oh! Let me die!" . . . The vocal drowning once again . . . Then, an old memory . . . "Put coffee on . . . and toast!" . . . And, once more, the sound like a broken beast, deep in the throat.

For one whole night, three feet from her, a curtain between us, I listened to that soul, bereft at last of that bright front she'd tried so hard to keep. The barrier was down. Thank God, I was a stranger! It would have sent her family into lunacy.

And, when dawn came, somehow, by some dawn miracle, she herself returned. In pain, in pain so deep that neither you nor I shall ever feel it, the fates willing. She knew her husband and the young girl who was there and even me, the stranger. But it did not last. The horror came again.

And so, for two more days and nights she was among us, until a mercy put her into a living sleep in which her heart still pumped as needles pricked her flesh and new machines flew to her aid and bottles dripped into her veins.

And I, the stranger, oddly became a part of waiting, listening from the next room, praying that her strength would ebb and she would find peace.

Out of bed, I found myself among those she loved, all bastions gone. Simply, I suppose, because I had heard her in the night, because I knew her not as just the occupant of a bed near mine but had shared her struggle for an instant's breath. There cannot be much putting on of things, I think, when a pair of people in a room both know that one has little time. There cannot be politeness afterward, in other rooms.

And so I waited with them, while the living sleep swam on, hour after hour, while feet paced, while men in white coats went in and out, and girls in starched hats intently watched what she had been, and bits of metal and of cloth did battle with her heart.

How had she come to this? "She did not seek help in time," her loved ones told me. "She was afraid to go to the hospital, afraid of what they might find." And they went on to speak of silly, mundane things—the difficulty of getting comfortable shoes, the baseball scores, whether or not to buy a certain kind of orange. Talk out of context. And all the while one ear was cocked to hear.

And that night, a man arrived, a man in black. Some of them—not the daughter, who was bitter against it—went to that still figure on the bed and prayed. Then another man—tall, a black bag in his hand—appeared, for his profession's sake. I went back to my room.

Two minutes later, her gallantry was gone. The upright bed was lowered, and she was at last allowed to sleep in peace.

Then, through the dimness, as I say, one and two and perhaps three together, they left her. And they were silent, as was she. Later, perhaps . . . But now exhaustion and the magnitude of what had been was blackly in their minds. They walked alone.

It had been 10 minutes. The small sounds felt through the wall were gone.

Far down the hall, the wheels were heard.

What was, was. □

Basketball's Jerry West: Battered, Bruised, Broken, Bloody—But Still

Jane West has endured, besides her husband's repeated nose breaks, his two broken hands, numerous broken fingers, pulled muscles, sprains, strains and bruises from head to toe. Jerry just shrugs it off. "In some ways, I've been fortunate," he says.

West, with the New York Knicks' Dave DeBusschere in pursuit: "We all play on nights we don't feel well and when we have pain."

● Jerry West—all six feet, three inches and 188 pounds of him—began the 1971-72 season as the fourth highest scorer in the history of professional basketball. But, alas, his nose sees almost as much action as the rest of him. "In this sport," Jerry tells me, "I'm considered almost frail. My style always has been built around quickness rather than strength, but I just keep running into people. My nose, just look at it."

Like all noses, West's sits in the middle of his face, a boyishly handsome face on which a smile plays across the left side of the upper lip, and which belies his almost 34 years. But there is a difference in Jerry's nose. It has a slight inward bend, the result of having been broken nine times.

"I won't have a full repair job done on the nose until after I'm through playing," he says. "There's no point having a big surgical job done now and then going out and breaking it again. I've broken it twice by running into Willis Reed of the Knicks, one of the biggest and strongest men in the league. If I break it on his elbow again, he gets to keep my nose permanently."

West's nose is so battered that by now it's just a mass of soft cartilage. "I've tried wearing masks to protect my nose," Jerry says, "but they were uncomfortable and hindered my vision. My wife Jane got accustomed to my condition early. The first time I broke my nose was in college—during a tournament in Kentucky. We were going together then and got married when I was a senior."

Jane West has endured, besides her husband's repeated nose breaks, his two broken hands, numerous broken fingers, pulled muscles, sprains, strains and bruises from head to toe. "I'm not put together differently from anyone else," Jerry insists. Frank O'Neill, the trainer who has been with the Los Angeles Lakers for 11 and a half seasons (like West), echoes this belief. "He gets injured a lot because of the way he plays," says O'Neill. "Always in the middle of the action, driving on much bigger men, straining for every move, every shot. The fact of the matter is that Jerry has probably played with more injuries than anyone else. There have been many times when he was so injured that he shouldn't have put on his uniform at all. Two years ago, his right hamstring muscle had such a bad pull that he almost couldn't walk. But he started the game, warmed up the muscle and ended up with 37 points."

Jerry refuses to take credit for special courage. "We all play on nights we don't feel well and when we have pain," he says. "When you're a professional athlete, that's one of the things you have to do. In some ways, I've been fortunate. I was so skinny when I came into this league that many people thought I'd never live past the first season. I'm six-three, and at that time I weighed about 170. Now I weigh 188. But one writer bet when I came up that I wouldn't last five seasons. If I'd believed him, I would have been gone long ago."

Though he is comparatively small in a sport of giants, Jerry's achievements are giant-sized. Going into the current season, only Wilt Chamberlain, Oscar Robertson and Elgin Baylor had scored more points in the NBA than West. Before Baylor's retirement in November, the Lakers had three of the top four all-time point makers, since the sleek forward was a Los Angeles teammate of Chamberlain and West. Before this season is over, Jerry should climb past Baylor into third place among NBA scorers. He has averaged nearly 28 points per game throughout his career and an amazing 31 points per game in post-season play-off action. Jerry's performance under the awesome stress of play-off situations has earned him the title, "Mr. Clutch."

Perhaps his most famous single basket came in the play-offs against the New York Knicks two years ago. With New York leading by two points and the final seconds of the fourth quarter ticking off, West lofted a desperation attempt at the basket almost 70 feet away. The ball went cleanly through the hoop, tying the game and sending it into overtime. While his teammates raved about the shot, West later said he felt "the ball would go in. I really did. It looked straight all the way. I have a lot of confidence in my shooting."

Despite the fantastic shot, West's team dropped the decision to the Knicks in overtime, and eventually the Lakers were beaten, four games to three. While he personally has been one of the greatest clutch players of all time, Jerry never has played on a title-winning team, either in college or in the pros. At West Virginia University, West's team reached the finals of the national collegiate tournament one year. The Lakers, with Jerry, have played in seven NBA championship rounds.

"It's really frustrating," says

West. "It would almost be better not to get to the play-offs at all than to go so far but no farther every year. I might have quit playing before this season if we had won the championship somewhere along the line."

Before the regular season even had begun, Jerry was honored at a banquet in Morgantown, W. Va., home of the state university where he had achieved all-America status. The Lakers played an exhibition game in Morgantown, but the fans who attended only had eyes for Jerry West. He received several deafening ovations.

"I'll just drive everybody crazy until I have to go to the arena. I'm so anxious that I go hours ahead of time."

"It was great, it really was," Jerry smiles. "It's always great to know you're appreciated. The fans there were always wonderful to me."

They had cause. Jerry was the finest basketball player in the university's history and probably the finest ever to come out of the state of West Virginia. He was the fifth of six children and the youngest of three sons, all raised in Cheylan, a town of only 500 people, about 14 miles south of the state capital in Charleston. Cheylan is so small that it has neither its own high school nor its own post office. Jerry went to East Bank High School, about four miles away. The West family's mailing address was Cabin Creek. From this, Jerry was given the nickname, "Zeke from Cabin Creek," a name he dislikes. "It makes me sound like a hillbilly," he complains.

Howard West, Jerry's father, who died in 1963, worked as a machine operator and later as an electrician in a coal-company shop, and put in long hours to earn a meager salary. Both of Jerry's brothers were several years older than he and didn't spend much time with him as a boy. Charles, the oldest West boy, is now treasurer of a Charleston-based company. David, the second brother, was a master sergeant in the Army and was killed in Korea when Jerry was a teenager. Jerry thinks the absence of male companionship he experienced as a boy drew him to basketball. "It's a sport you can play by yourself," Jerry points out. "All you need is a ball and a hoop. I spent long hours practicing alone and developed my shooting ability to a high level."

West has possibly the finest shooting range of any pro basketball player. He can score consistently from as far out as 30 feet, a distance many players never would even attempt to negotiate. Jerry has made more than 47 percent of his NBA field-goal attempts, an extremely high percentage for the number of difficult shots he takes. He also is an extremely accurate free-throw shooter, with an average of better than 81 percent during his pro career.

Having lived since 1963 in one part of Los Angeles, the Wests recently moved into a new home in the Brentwood section. "When you have three boys growing up in the same family," Jerry smiles, "you don't have to explain the need for a larger house." The three sons of Jerry and Jane West are 11-year-old David (named for Jerry's late brother), Michael, nine, and Mark, eight. "They seem to be good athletes," Jerry says of his sons. "But it'll be completely up to them whether or not they'll go into pro sports. Right now, I'm just happy we have a close family, something I didn't have when I was a boy."

West admits his nomadic, pressure-filled life as a sports star hasn't been easy on his family. "They put up with a lot from me during the season," he says. "I'm sensitive, and I suffer a lot while the season is on. I'll wake up in the morning on the day of a game, and I'll just drive everybody crazy until I have to go to the arena. It's the same on the road. I'm so anxious that I go hours ahead of time."

Before a game, Jerry sits in front of his locker waiting to have his legs taped by the trainer, with the rest of the team. Before pulling on the famous uniform, number 44, he engages in all the usual banter with his teammates —one of the times when it's all right for a pro athlete to indulge himself at his place of business. The locker room also provides at least temporary safety and freedom from injury for Jerry West. So far, Jerry's nose has never been hurt in the locker room. □

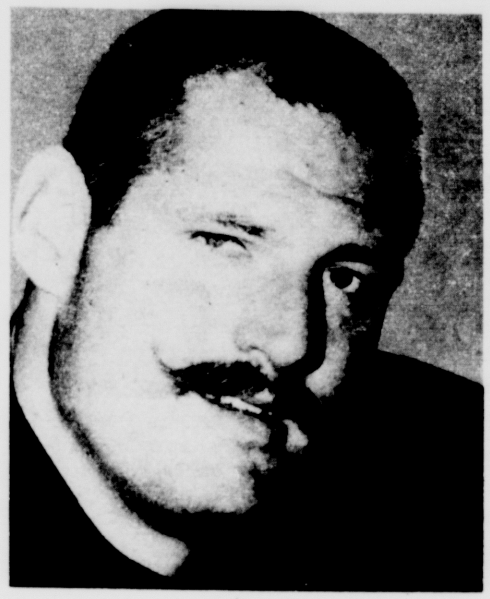
BEN DAVIDSON



"Good Publicity Could Spoil My Image"

Ben Davidson, six-foot, eight-inch, 280-pound defensive end for the Oakland Raiders, has learned it's very profitable to play the role of "villain." He sports a long handlebar moustache in the style of the villains of the silent screen and is always being quoted about the "mayhem" he is going to commit on opposition quarterbacks. This brings out huge crowds to cheer him in Oakland and boo him in other cities... Blamed for breaking Joe Namath's jaw a few years ago, he was proclaimed Public Enemy No. 1 by Namath's teammates. The jaw-breaking was accidental, and Davidson swears he likes Namath. But feud stories persist... As the moustachioed villain, Davidson has been able to coin a small fortune in public-speaking engagements, TV appearances and the operation of two cocktail lounges called "Big Ben's." He also has real-estate investments... Big Ben is a native of Los Angeles and played his college football at the University of Washington. He was on two Rose Bowl teams and played on a championship team at Green Bay in 1961, his first year as a pro. He was later traded to Oakland. The defensive giant has been a member of the AFL all-star team three times and has played in both AFL and NFL championship games. He keeps adding strength through weight lifting during the off-season and after practice... Davidson is an active volunteer worker for the Red Cross but says publicity about this would "spoil my image." He is married and the father of three daughters, who say their dad plays hard football but is not villainous.—By Barry Abramson

The Doctor Lets You In

Moles—And When They're Dangerous

The average adult has 15 to 20 moles, or "pigmented nevi," on his body. Most of them can be safely ignored. But a small percentage, often located at certain danger zones, can spread and change into a fatal skin cancer called "malignant melanoma." How can you tell when a mole is dangerous? First of all, its location. Moles on the palms, soles, toes, fingernail beds, sexual organs and around pressure points are more likely to become cancerous. Second, the appearance. Be concerned if a mole starts changing in color, size or texture; if it oozes or bleeds; if it spreads to the surrounding skin; if little "satellites" appear around it. You should always go to a doctor for a diagnosis. Even if a mole doesn't change, most doctors recommend that if it is anyplace where it gets irritated, as on your feet, or in your groin, you should have it removed.—By John J. Secondi, M.D.

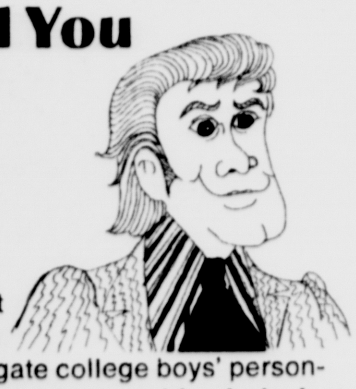
The Diet Watch

Can Noise Make You Fatter?

Yes, in a way. Environmental psychologists point out that constant noises or loud noises are an irritant. The effect often is to make people nervously and unselectively eat their way through a meal they're not that hungry for, whereas a quiet, peaceful atmosphere makes for more leisurely and selective eating. Consequently, a desk lunch is often a better choice for the dieter than one at a drugstore counter or a cafeteria, with a clash of dishes and shouted food orders. At home, a dieting housewife will be more likely to eat a smaller quantity of food if she does not eat in the kitchen when the dishwasher or washing machine is on. Environmental psychologists' tests show that the kitchen is the noisiest room in the house.—By Harriet LaBarre

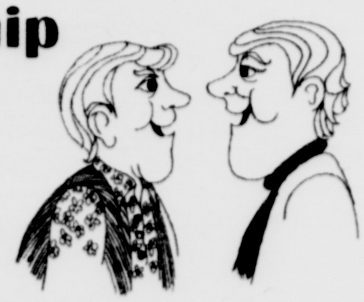
People and You



Would You Like to Have a "Swinger" for a Friend?

You won't completely understand your teenage son or boy friend after you finish this, but it may help! An attempt by a psychologist to investigate college boys' personalities reveals that boys who prefer a friend who is a "swinger" are themselves often immature and not especially well adjusted socially. According to the psychologist, boys who seek out the swinger may be hoping to learn better social techniques from their friend, or they may be hoping to gain "recognition" by associating with him. Boys like this will often choose a college major that has high status, but then they will turn around and carefully avoid anyone who values academic work. One thing is certain: they are so busy trying to find and keep swinging friends that they have no interest in any kind of radical political action.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

Jobmanship



It's Wise to Watch What You Say

In business you must know how to talk effectively with others. Three ways to keep yourself out of talk-trouble are: 1) Be careful of hidden meanings. You said, "Sorry, I can't," when Tom suggested eating lunch together. Did you refuse because you don't like eating with Tom, or because you were too busy? A brief explanation prevents misunderstandings. 2) Be careful what you promise. When handing out a difficult job, don't try to sugarcoat it by suggesting "good possibilities in the future" if it's done well. The person assigned the job is going to translate your vague words into something specific. "The boss said I'm due for a raise," is the way he'll tell it at home that night. 3) Don't volunteer more than you can deliver. When there's a pile of extra work, bravely offering "to get it all done by quitting time" is foolish. Even if you do almost all of it, no one will notice. Instead, your performance is going to seem disappointing to your supervisor.

Experts Agree: "Something Is Terribly Wrong with America's Children"

The evidence is pouring in: our children are in trouble — primarily because we are in trouble. Whose fault is it? And, more important, what can be done to help?

By Alan D. Haas

"Parents today are down on kids. Mothers are not contented enough to be good mothers. They lead such busy, complicated lives that they haven't the emotional aptitude for motherhood. The woman who doesn't work feels unimportant. The mother who does work uses her children to prove that she is still a good mother. Such anxious mothers make unsure kids. The child thinks: there must be something wrong with me. . . ."

The speaker is child psychologist Bruno Bettelheim, and he is not talking about mothers of ghetto families or women our courts have found "unfit." He is talking about an overwhelming number of American mothers today. His words might be considered slanderous—if the evidence were not on his side. But the fact is, there is a crisis in America's family life—a crisis so deep and pervasive that it is in danger of "crippling" an entire generation.

Look at the following facts:

• According to the Congressional Joint Committee on Mental Health of Children, at least two percent of our children has a severe degree of emotional disturbance and another eight to 10 percent is in need of mental health treatment. In numbers, this works out to 10 or 12 million kids who should be receiving regular treatment. Experts estimate that there are at least another 10 million who show signs of "mild disturbance."

• A three-year study by the Mental Health Association in New York's affluent Westchester County reveals that one of every two children in homes with incomes of $6,500 or more is suffering from some degree of emotional impairment requiring mental-health services. According to Dr. Olga R. Lurie, director of the study and a leading child psychologist, comparable studies in other parts of the country would turn up similar results.

According to a study headed by Dr. Olga R. Lurie, a leading child psychologist, one of every two children in homes with incomes of $6,500 or more is suffering from some degree of emotional impairment requiring mental-health services.

• Studies among the poor are even more sobering. Psychologists estimate that, among low-income families, at least four out of five children have some degree of emotional impairment. (Emotional impairment, it is stressed, does not mean mental illness. It is a catchall term denoting a malfunction in some important area of the child's life: in school, with friends or his family. Common symptoms are antisocial or impulsive behavior, feelings of isolation, anxiety and low self-esteem.)

What all this means is that our children are in trouble—primarily because we ourselves are in trouble. "Healthy kids generally come from healthy families and impaired youngsters from impaired families," Doctor Lurie notes. If parents today are to raise healthy, normal kids, they need help from the community (social-service agencies, teachers, ministers, cops on the beat). This is necessary in a world full of tension, war and racial strife. Yet, most parents refrain from seeking such assistance. Of the 800 children studied in the Westchester County survey, 441 were found to need some form of mental-health attention. But only 66 had ever received such care. Even among the 66, around one-fourth of these had made no more than one visit to a mental-health professional.

The neglect of these family problems is widespread. The Joint Committee report points out that in this, the richest of all the world powers, only $190 of Federal funds were spent on each child in 1970. Local and state governments are not doing much better. "Clearly," the Joint Committee report emphasizes, "a broad range of mental-health services for children and their

Who is to blame for this dismal picture? Not necessarily the parents. "Parents are on the whole quite intelligent and dedicated to doing a good job for their kids," Doctor Lurie says, "but the strain of our stressful society is just too much for them to do it alone." Bettelheim says pretty much the same thing. "Mothers as people are no better or worse than they ever were," he says. "If anything, they try too hard. But they have an impossible time trying to make up for everything that is lacking in children's lives today."

Dr. J. Louise Despert, another leading authority, claims that what parents need today unfortunately cannot be taught. "The trend to learn motherhood," she feels, "may be a sham, and even a danger. By approaching her child intellectually, the mother can create a gulf which will become increasingly difficult for the two of them to cross." What a child needs is love and understanding, closeness and support. And discipline is an integral part of this closeness.

A local radio station in New York City goes on the air every night with this warning message: "It is 10 o'clock. Do you know where your children are?" Too many parents cannot answer this question with assurance. Too few parents, psychologists feel, sit down with their kids of an evening and talk to them, face to face, about their difficulties. And even fewer seem to have a code of values that kids can admire or copy.

"Actually, the techniques parents use in raising kids," Doctor Lurie thinks, "are not so important as a good, warm, affectionate relationship." Consistency on the part of the parents is important, she believes, and this is difficult for parents who themselves are beset by doubts, tensions and anxieties.

A lot of our troubles with the young are blamed on Doctor Spock and the influence of his so-called permissive theories of child raising. Doctor Lurie doesn't buy this. Doctor Spock, she feels, has been as widely misread about child care as Doctor Freud has been on the subject of sex. "Doctor Spock never discounted the value of controls at the proper time and on the proper occasion," Doctor Lurie emphasizes. Today's kids suffer not so much from overpermissiveness as from the confusion that results from the parents' own conflicts.

As one psychologist, Dr. Haim Ginott, explains it, "When a child is forbidden to have negative feelings or nasty thoughts, he will inevitably have too much guilt and anxiety. To prevent unnecessary guilt, parents should deal with children's transgressions the way a good mechanic deals with a car that breaks down. He does not shame the owner; he points out what has to be repaired. He asks himself what is the probable source of the trouble. It is a great comfort for children to know inwardly that they are really free to think as they please without losing their parents' love or approval." □

"Children Need People in Order to Become Human"

This was a key phrase in a report by Dr. Urie Bronfenbrenner of Cornell University in the 1970 White House Conference on Children. Advocating sweeping changes in this country's attitude toward children, Doctor Bronfenbrenner made a number of interesting suggestions for business, government and communities. Among them:

- That businesses should be encouraged to "adopt" groups of children, and so break down the walls that exist between kids and the work-a-day lives of their parents.
- That companies should stop scheduling weekend and evening functions that disrupt family life. Likewise, companies should be more cautious about transferring young married people to different geographical regions—a practice that is often cruel and harmful to children.
- That, for the sake of mothers, companies increase the number of available part-time jobs; become more lenient in granting leaves for maternity and child care; take part in the establishment of day-care centers near the employees' place of work; give more consideration to employees' families when planning new office locations (in other words, help eliminate commuting problems).
- That TV networks devote more energy to developing "interactive television," so that children and adults will not use TV-watching as a means to avoid communication with each other.
- That parents, schools and communities work together to develop meaningful functions and responsibilities for children (such as cleaning up the environment or setting their schools' behavioral codes), rather than the unchallenging and boring chores that children are often given.

ENTER FREE!

WIN YOUR SHARE OF $3,000.00

Can You Name Our Mystery Picture?

Dear Friend:

This is your golden opportunity to win big money without spending one cent of your own money to do so. Just solve our puzzles and win $1,000.00! That's the first prize in our all new FREE Money In the Bank Puzzle Contest. There are absolutely no entry fees of any kind.

NOTICE TO CONTESTANTS – THIS CONTEST IS ABSOLUTELY FREE!

...and consists of one puzzle requiring you to correctly identify the picture on the puzzle entry blank and to successfully solve word and picture clues. Our past experience indicates that a majority of the contestants will probably be able to successfully solve the contest puzzle. Accordingly, it will be necessary for those persons to successfully complete one or more free "tiebreaking" puzzles in order to win one of the prizes. Each of these free "tiebreaking" puzzles will require you to construct your own word-building or crossword-type puzzles and points will be awarded based upon letter values given to each letter by American Holiday Association. These "tie-breaking" puzzles will be substantially more difficult than the enclosed puzzle.

Somebody is always winning our famous contests...it might as well be you. So send in your solution today. Remember, it's absolutely free!

Trudi Wilson

OFFICIAL RULES/MONEY IN THE BANK PUZZLE CONTEST

2. This free Money In the Bank Contest Puzzle will be scored in this fashion: 10 points for naming what is in the mystery picture; 2 points for each word or object correctly identified. All the words you use must appear in the 75c New Merriam-Webster Pocket Dictionary. Winners will be chosen on a point basis: Highest score wins First Prize; 2nd highest score wins 2nd Prize, etc.

3. In case of ties, which are expected, all tied contestants will be required to solve additional and more challenging word-building, letter-value free tiebreaker puzzles, each with its own scoring rules and solutions. Point scores of all winning Tiebreaker Puzzles will be verified by a firm of Certified Public Accountants. No less than five days will be allowed for solving each free tiebreaker puzzle. No more than three of these free tiebreaker puzzles should be necessary, and no more than four will be required under any circumstances. Should any contestants remain tied for any prize after completion of four tiebreaker puzzles, duplicate prizes will be awarded in that category.

4. No entrance fee to this contest is required. One prize per household. All entries become the property of the sponsor. Contest sponsors, their advertising agencies and the immediate families of either are not eligible. Contestants, or members of their households, in any American Holiday Association Contests who have prior hereto singly or cumulatively won $500.00 or more at the time this contest is paid, are not eligible to win prizes in this contest. Persons under the age of 18 years are not permitted to enter this contest. Contest limited to residents of the U.S.A.

5. This completed Money In the Bank Contest puzzle must be returned to us by March 31, 1972, and all prizes are scheduled to be paid about July, 1972.

6. Contestants agree to above rules. The sponsor retains the right and power to make such further rules and regulations as in his discretion are necessary for the proper function of the contest and to assure fair and equal opportunity to all contestants. Contestants agree to be bound by all such additional rules and regulations. Contest subject to all such additional rules and regulations. Not responsible for lost, stolen or delayed mail. A full list of winners and the winning solution will be sent to all contestants after prizes have been awarded, if requested.

Cosmetic Chemist Discovers How To

LINES, WRINKLES WHILE TIGHTENING SAGGING SKIN ON FACE AND THROAT

A cosmetic scientist's experiments with extracts from common herbs and plants may yet prove to be the best news ever for lined, wrinkled, sagging skin that makes the face look old and dowdy.

EASY-FAST-SAFE HOME WAY

His new herb and plant skin de-aging recipe has been compounded into a delightful new kind of formula for easy home use. A thin film spread over face and neck in seconds makes the skin feel amazingly reinvigorated as the lifting and tightening process begins. The skin feels a delightful tingle . . . feels impurities being lifted . . . feels the lines being smoothed and the flabby sag being tightened. The stimulating process continues until the film has dried to a glaze finish and even then the herb and plant extracts keep on lifting, clearing and tightening.

TIGHTENS SAGGING SKIN IN THESE CRITICAL AREAS:

BAGS UNDER EYES

JAWLINE AND MOUTH CORNER SAG

CHIN DROOP "CREPPY" THROAT

YOU LOOK YOUNGER FOR HOURS EVEN WITHOUT MAKEUP

This new herb and plant discovery is being introduced under the name of "LET'S LIFT IT" — and it's the amazing new discovery that surpasses everything we've ever tried! It counteracts most skin beauty problems common to women of all ages! Not a cream . . . not a lotion . . . so new and different you just smooth on . . . let set . . . rinse. In 5 minutes you FEEL a fast pick-up as the unusual deep-down action exercises the skin, firms tissue, makes sagging muscles tingle. In 5 minutes you SEE it rinse away blackheads and clarify sallow, muddy, sluggish looking skin tone as it retones skin texture. Wrinkles and lines around eyes and mouth soften noticeably, even disappear. Flabby skin and puffiness looks tighter and more firm. Dark circles, shadows and spots lighten visibly. Enlarged pores are refined and look smaller . . . dry skin moistens. Even without makeup skin acquires the clean smooth texture, the bright clear tone, the glow of youth appearance that's every woman's dream. Your skin keeps on looking younger for days and each use brings the same great results.

TEST 7 DAYS AT OUR RISK

For your test at our risk, mail coupon below for the regular full size 60-day jar of "LET'S LIFT IT." If C.O.D. postage extra and $1.00 deposit required. Satisfaction guaranteed or return only jar cap in an envelope for full refund. Retouched photos illustrate difference. Truly this plant and herb formula is the best way ever to lift your face out of lines and wrinkles and to make old-looking, sagging skin under the chin look and feel tighter again!

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets, or everyday stress and strain. If this nagging backache, with restless, sleepless nights, is wearing you out, making you miserable and irritable, don't wait, try Doan's Pills — an analgesic, a pain reliever. Doan's pain-relieving action on nagging backache is often the answer. Get Doan's Pills — not a habit-forming drug but a well-known standard remedy used successfully by millions for over 70 years. See if they don't bring you the same welcome relief. For convenience, always buy Doan's large size.

Edy Williams: Can a "Bombshell" Still Find Happiness In Hollywood?

The only jarring note is her insistence on having a maid only once a month, while doing the cooking and housework herself the rest of the time. "My middle-class background," she insisted.

STAR PROFILE / By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Edy Williams is being touted as a present-day Marilyn Monroe, a new Jane Russell, another Jayne Mansfield. Certainly her physical endowments seem true to pattern—a 37-24-37 figure spread out nicely over 130 pounds on a five-foot-eight frame, long dark-brown hair, dark-brown eyes.

While Jane Russell had Howard Hughes to give her career a boost; Marilyn Monroe, an agent named Johnny Hyde, who devoted his life to her career; and Jayne Mansfield could depend on James Byron, one of Hollywood's more imaginative press agents, Edy Williams has all the help she can ask for from no less than Russ Meyer, the controversial director of films like "Seven Minutes" and "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls"—in both of which she had featured parts. Meyer is her husband.

The fact that their acting abilities left something to be desired was of no particular consequence to her predecessors—so why should a similar problem bother Edy? What's more, she loves playing the part of the sex goddess and plays it to the hilt. When I told her I wanted to see her for a FAMILY WEEKLY interview, she answered in a deep, husky voice, "How about coming over right now?"

We settled for the following Tuesday.

I drove up to the top of Mulholland Drive, where Russ and Edy have recently purchased an enormous house, complete with indoor-outdoor swimming pool, two separate guesthouses and acres and acres of grounds.

Before we started a tour of the house, Edy offered me "cold duck"—a combination of champagne and bubbly red French wine, nicely chilled. "My favorite drink," she explained.

She then showed me the house, which includes a master bedroom with a huge bed that would have made Louis XIV jealous, a guest bedroom with a heated waterbed ("a present from Hugh Hefner," she told me), a secret door that leads into a big closet, his and her dressing rooms and his and her bathrooms ("I keep Russ out of mine. That's my private domain"). One section of the house is devoted to sending out thousands of Edy's pictures to servicemen in Vietnam. (Shades of Monroe, Russell and Mansfield?) The only jarring note is her insistence on having a maid only once a month, while doing the cooking and housework herself the rest of the time. "My middle-class background," she insisted.

"Middle-class background" includes, according to Edy, a direct lineage to Winston Churchill and the Earl of Bronmouth.

Her father, Harold Williams, is a lawyer for an insurance company. Edy—who was born Edwina Beth Williams in Salt Lake City 29 years ago—was raised in an upper-middle-class section of the San Fernando Valley. Before they knew better, her parents thought it might be nice for their daughter to be in a refined, secure

"I like to live in a dreamworld," says Edy. "So what if it's make-believe? That's all I ever wanted."

profession like teaching. But ever since Edy was named Miss Sherman Oaks when she was 16, she has had a one-track mind: show business. "I love everything about it, particularly publicity. And I love Hollywood. And glamour. I want everything to be beautiful. I like to live in a dreamworld. So what if it's make-believe? That's all I ever wanted."

She won a whole slew of contests: Miss San Fernando Valley, Miss Los Angeles, Miss Tarzana, Miss Studio City, Miss California Bikini, Miss Palm Springs, Miss KNX (radio station). She also lost a few, coming in second for Miss Beverly Hills and third for Miss California. "But I won a lot more than I lost," she insisted.

In spite of all that winning, no producer, director, publicist or agent ever walked up to her and asked her whether she wanted to be in the movies. So she went to central casting and was told they were full up, to come back a year later. "I did, and when they asked my name, I told them everybody called me Edy [pronounced "Eddie"], and they told me I couldn't use that name because I'd wind up being cast as a Marine sergeant or something like that. So I said I'd pronounce it 'Eedie' but spell it Edy, and I've been Edy Williams ever since."

To show that she was serious about acting, she studied drama for four years, but she's honest enough to admit that what she really wants is not so much to be recognized as a superb actress but as a S-T-A-R. That and all the trimmings that go with it. And the opportunity to realize this came in the shape of six-foot-three Russ Meyer.

It was Edy who made the first move. "I asked him to take me to a cocktail party for Mae West. I wore a daring gown for which a lot of men might have criticized me. But not Russ. He told me he loved all the excitement I created."

While Edy and Russ seem to have a lot in common, she patently denies it. "In fact, there is very little we agree about," she told me. "Take music. I like rock. He likes the long-haired stuff. I like to dance. He likes to work. I like cats. He likes dogs. I am an outdoor girl who loves horseback riding and water skiing and that sort of thing. He thinks it is a big deal when he submerges in the pool. Maybe it is because we are so different that we are attracted to each other."

Maybe. She didn't sound very convincing. Russ himself seems to be undergoing a change all his own. His next project is a horror film. After that, he'd like to make "good suspense" movies.

And will he still want his wife to play featured roles or star in them? Or will her qualifications limit her to what Russ calls "the passing fad"? Will Edy ever really live that dream she has yearned for—to be a star? Right now, neither Edy nor her husband has the answers. But somehow Edy's vehement insistence that she's happy and all is well seems like a scene from one of her movies: nice to look at—but you don't believe the lines. □

This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother- and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 persons examined, especially children, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system.

COOKBOOK/By Marilyn Hansen

Hurry-up Dinners

BUBBLY BEEF BAKE

2 cans (1½-lb. size) beef stew
2½ teaspoons instant minced onion
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons poppy seed
½ teaspoon celery seed
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
¾ cup skim milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs

1. Preheat oven to 400° F. In 2½-qt. casserole combine beef stew and 2 teaspoons instant minced onion. Heat in oven for 20 minutes.

2. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together into medium bowl. Stir in remaining ½ teaspoon minced onion, poppy seed, celery seed, vegetable oil and skim milk. Stir until combined.

3. In small skillet melt butter. Remove from heat, add bread crumbs, toss to combine.

4. Remove casserole from oven. Using a large tablespoon, scoop about ¼ cup dumpling mixture onto crumbs, roll to coat. Place on stew. Repeat with remaining dumpling mixture and crumbs.

5. Return to oven and bake uncovered 30 minutes until dumplings are golden brown and stew is bubbly. Makes 6 servings

ZESTY TOMATO SALAD

1 can (16 ozs.) stewed tomatoes
1 pkg. (3 ozs.) lemon-flavored gelatin
3 drops Tabasco
2 tablespoons lemon juice
⅓ cup water
½ cup finely chopped celery
Lettuce leaves
Russian dressing (optional)

1. In 1-qt. saucepan bring stewed tomatoes to boiling, breaking up tomatoes with spoon. Reduce heat to low; add gelatin and stir until completely dissolved.

2. Remove from heat; stir in Tabasco, lemon juice, water and celery. Pour into a 7x11-inch glass baking dish. Cover with plastic film. Refrigerate until firm.

3. To serve: cut in squares, place on lettuce leaves on individual salad plates. Pass Russian dressing separately.

Makes 6-8 servings

MEATBALL BARBECUE PIE

2 cans (1½-lb. size) meatball stew
½ cup ketchup
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons light molasses
1 teaspoon brown mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups frozen small whole onions, unthawed
1 pkg. (11 ozs.) piecrust mix
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water

1. Preheat oven to 425° F. In medium bowl combine meatball stew, ketchup, lemon juice, molasses, mustard, pepper and whole onions. Turn into 9-inch pie pan.

2. Make up piecrust mix according to package directions. Roll out crust according to package directions to 11-inch circle. Fold pastry in quarters. Cut several steam vents.

3. Unfold pastry on top of meatball mixture. Flute edge as desired. For a golden, shiny crust, combine egg yolk with water and brush pastry well with this mixture.

4. Bake for 30-35 minutes until crust is golden brown and filling is bubbly. Makes 6-8 servings

AUTHOR RUTH MONTGOMERY
Her book wrote itself

What is "automatic writing"? Ruth Montgomery, who wrote Jeane Dixon's biography, claims you write automatically if someone dictates to you from the world beyond. Which is (no coincidence) how she says she wrote her new book, "A World Beyond" (Coward, McCann, $5.95), about the after-death revelations of the Rev. Arthur Ford, a psychic. (Before his death in January, 1971, Ford appeared to put Bishop James Pike in touch with his dead son over television.) Mrs. Montgomery explained "automatic writing": "I spend some time in meditation (sitting quietly, listening to God) every day at the same time. Afterward, when I'm at the typewriter, I roll in paper and type the date. With eyes closed, I pray for protection against evil and put my fingers on the keys. Then Arthur directs my writing." Does she make many mistakes? "No, Arthur's a better speller than I am; types faster, too."

Charcoal may prevent hangovers. A recent study at Columbia University duplicated actual stomach conditions and used a standard-brand, 86-proof whiskey. The finding: "It is the congeners – impurities – in whiskey that cause hangover symptoms. Charcoal removes the congeners." So now – wouldn't you know it?—one company is planning to manufacture charcoal in an easy-to-swallow capsule form. Says a company spokesman, "It wouldn't be a bad idea for bartenders to set out plates of charcoal capsules along with the peanuts and pretzels."

Frankie Laine is still going strong 40 years after his first paid singing engagement in 1931. Why? He shared some of his secrets with FAMILY WEEKLY while he was appearing at the posh Persian Room in New York's Plaza Hotel. "Some people beat their brains out to achieve success, then risk their careers through bad behavior or management," he says. "I was 34 when I became successful, and that made it easier for me. I'd already had the carousing, so I didn't need night life, girls, drinking or pot parties. I didn't stay out all night ruining the equipment that enables me to sing the way I do. I found a great wife and have two marvelous daughters. When I did make it, I went for the long run. By that, I mean I was determined to behave myself, handle my life properly and be aware of the responsibilities of becoming successful. I have found that most of the things that make people mad in this business are not that important. If a musician plays a sour note, why bawl him out? If he could play it any better, he would. And if he can't, bawling him out isn't going to do any good. He's human. If we're understanding, the next time he plays with us, he'll break his back for us."

SINGER FRANKIE LAINE
It's useless to bawl people out

CHINA WATCHERS

BY RICHARD ARMOUR

You've heard, no doubt, of China watchers,
Some of them wise, some of them botchers.
Well, I'm a china watcher, too,
A statement that I swear is true.
When china watching, I myself
I see it slowly, year by year,
Get chipped and cracked and disappear.
I ask a little bit too late,
"Where is that platter"
"Where's that plate?"
It slipped, was pushed, or maybe jumped.
The pieces in the trash were dumped.
An eight-piece service now serves five,
Or did—another took a dive.
A china watcher, I've no doubt,
Should not watch china—just watch out.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

This is my son's first year in kindergarten, and apparently it has widened his horizons considerably. My wife thought it would be interesting to inquire about his current loyalties.

"Honey," she said, "whom do you love the most?"

Soberly the youngster considered the question, then replied:

"Well, I love you best. And then comes Daddy. And teacher is last. But in between come a lot of dogs." —Mr. R.D.G.

The newly married couple were having an argument. "This is too much," exclaimed the husband. "This is our last quarrel. I'm going right out of your life!"

As he spoke, he opened the door, then ducked in again. "It's lucky for you it's raining," he announced.

PLANE PARTNER

When my lap is full of reading matter,
He pounds my ear with senseless chatter.
When I lack books and just face boredom,

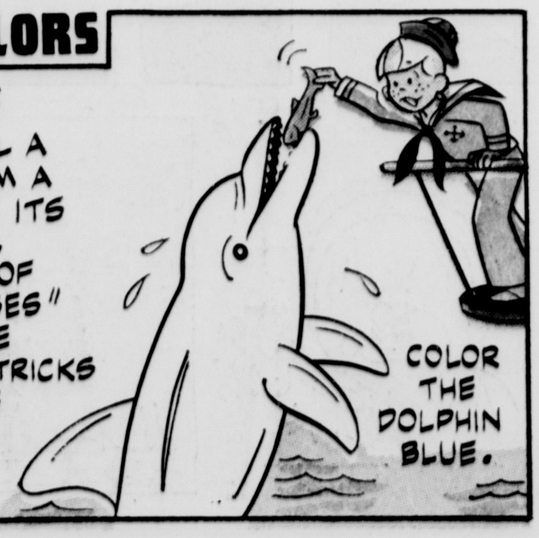
DOLPHINS

YOU CAN TELL A DOLPHIN FROM A PORPOISE BY ITS LONG SNOUT. ALMOST ALL OF THE "PORPOISES" THAT YOU SEE PERFORMING TRICKS IN AQUARIUMS ARE REALLY DOLPHINS.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

GOATS DON'T REALLY EAT TIN CANS, BUT THEY WILL LICK THEM FOR ANY FOOD THAT MAY BE LEFT INSIDE. GOATS ARE VERY DESTRUCTIVE IN THEIR EATING HABITS. THEY WILL EAT YOUR GARDEN, YOUR HEDGE, AND EVEN THE BARK OFF THE TREES...

JOHNNY IS SENDING WORLD ALMANACS TO: KYLE BOWDEN ALICE, TX. LAYNE TUCKER BENTON, AR. ROXANE WHOMSLEY ANAHEIM, CA. TERRY JAMISON CROWLEY, LA.

DEAR POLLY—I keep my good china and crystal in plastic bags, and it is always fresh and clean for quick use. Plates, platters, etc., are stacked in larger bags with thin paper plates between these items to prevent chipping or scratching.—MRS. A. M. G.

DEAR POLLY—An old toothbrush is great to use for a doll's hairbrush.—LIBBY

DEAR POLLY—I use one of the cheaper wig forms to keep my "whimsy" hats neat and fresh-looking. Insert two small picture hooks on the head part, put a veil opening over it and the hat does not slip off.—IRMA

DEAR POLLY—Mothers who use disposable diapers for tiny babies can buy the larger size, cut them in half (pull pleats out first), and have two diapers from one. This is a real money-saver.—MRS. B. R. C.

DEAR POLLY—Several times while traveling we have had the misfortune of having to stay in musty-smelling motels. Now we always carry along a can of spray deodorizer, and it works wonders.—EVE

DEAR POLLY—An empty dishwashing liquid soap bottle makes a fine holder for powder used to spray plants, and makes the job easier and faster.—MISS C. A. B.

DEAR POLLY—After cleaning my kitchen cabinets I found lining the shelves with dish towels made the cabinets more attractive, and easier to change when necessary. Simply reline the shelves with clean towels.—GERALDINE

DEAR POLLY—This past summer I hit on an idea that helps mothers who despair at the endless stack of used glasses in the sink. As the children were always happy to drink soft drinks from bottles, I decided they might enjoy water from the same kind of bottles. I bought bottle caps in a variety of colors, put adhesive tape name-labels on the bottles and lined them up on a shelf on the refrigerator door. Each child even takes the responsibility of refilling his bottle. Some of my neighbors have adopted this idea, to the delight of their youngsters.—VAL

DEAR POLLY—When I'm cutting a quantity of onions, as for chili sauce, I place a small fan on the counter top to blow away the onion fumes, and prevent a lot of tears.—JOAN
